DEMAND PUBLICITY FOR MELLEN

WOODBURY CASE GOES TO JURY

Judge Hitchcock in the Suffolk Superior Court charged the jury just before the recess today in the suit for $1,700 for board, lodging and loans Mrs. Elizabeth T. Beals has brought against her former husband, Milton A. Woodbury, whom she declares she still loves. The case went to the jury at 2:10 o'clock this afternoon.

In closing his argument, Attorney William A. Lewis, counsel for Woodbury, said in part:

"This is a spite suit from beginning to end. Down to August 14, 1912, there wasn't the slightest demand or claim for this money, but two days later, when Mr. Woodbury brought suit for annulment, then came this suit. They say hell hath no fury like that of a woman scorned. That's true, and in this case just as soon as Mr. Woodbury began suit for the annulment of his marriage, which he had a perfect right to do, then she started out to get even with him.

Mr. George Sustained.

"The whole theory of evidence introduced by the plaintiff is to show that Woodbury lived off Mrs. Beals. On the contrary, we have shown you that before Woodbury made Mrs. Beals' acquaintance over the telephone and afterward he was employed in his father's business, receiving a good salary.

"You heard her testimony that she didn't talk with the Boston AMERICAN man, and yet you saw Mr. George this morning and you know what kind of a man he is. You heard him testify that he went into her home and sat down and talked with her for a half an hour. Her statements are incredible.

"What kind of a woman do you think this is who admits here that she went back to live with her first husband, Beals, and while still living with him says she still loves Woodbury?"

Attorney Noyes, summing up for the plaintiff, said, in part:

Called a "Stingy" Man.

"This case sums down to whether you believe the defendant or the plaintiff. This may come into business and he makes a failure of it. After he has got everything he can from her, and after his father dies she isn't aristocratic enough for him. He shows himself a small, stingy man. After his father is dead he sees something else in sight and then he plans to cast her off.

When Mrs. Beals took the stand today she was questioned by Attorney Lewis regarding her conduct toward Woodbury during the period they lived together as husband and wife.

Q.—Did you ever throw an alarm clock or phonograph records at Mr. Woodbury or spit in his face? A.—No, sir.

Q.—You quarreled with Mr. Woodbury, didn't you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—(Producing battered alarm clock)—Did you ever throw this at Mr. Woodbury? A.—I threw that clock, but not at Mr. Woodbury. It was dented by striking a radiator when he was in the opposite end of the room.

Threw Alarm Clock.

Q.—But that is not inconsistent with the traditional aim of a woman, is it? A.—Well, I didn't throw it at him. He came home late one night and I scolded him for staying away so much in the evening.

He said: "You left your first husband because he treated you badly. Now I've been treating you as badly as I could, so that you will leave me, too, but still you stick." Then he said a lot of nasty things and I got mad and threw the clock into the corner to let out my feelings. I never thought of hitting him with it. If I threw it at him I could have aimed much nearer to him than an opposite corner of the room.

Mrs. Beals declared that she still loved her former husband, Woodbury.

In an interview with the Sunday AMERICAN Mrs. Beals said she still loved Woodbury even though her marriage to him had been annulled.

Harvard Student Kills Himself on West Boston Bridge

Disappointed in love, Lucien B. Tennant, a Harvard student whose home is in Terre Haute, Ind., shot and killed himself early today at the base of one of the towers of the West Boston bridge on the Boston side.

It is known that the college man had been jilted in a love affair and for the past few days had been melancholy.

The "girl in the case" is said to be a girl from the West.

Tennant was a first-year student in the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard. He was well up in his studies and was a man of quiet habits. He was twenty-five.

The young man came here the first of the season from De Pauw University, where he graduated with high honors.

Today young Tennant, who lived at the Y. M. C. A. in Cambridge, went to the West Boston bridge, to the rear of Tower D. He carried a thirty-eight calibre revolver. Death was caused by one shot. The bullet entered the head just above the right temple. The body was found by Dominick Connors, a bridge employe. Medical Examiner Magrath had it taken to the North Grove street morgue. He identified Tennant from documents found in the dead man's pockets.

The police wondered today what strange fascination lures people to commit suicide in the tower on the West Boston bridge.

A short time ago a Woonsocket man, discouraged, took his life in the same tower on the same bridge and in the same manner as did the young Harvard student today.

SMITH REPLIES TO MAYOR ON LABORERS' PAY

Councilman Ernest E. Smith added to the controversy over to the $2.50 a day wage for the city laborer, when in a statement issued this afternoon in reply to Mayor Fitzgerald's reflection upon his honesty of purpose, he declared that "fair play demands we call the Mayor's bluff."

The Mayor contends that the money to increase the laborers is not available at present, but has promised to grant the additional money in the near future when funds are available.

Councilman Smith believes that the money should be taken from the $400,000 appropriation which was made for the maintainance and repair of highways. It will cost $115,000 to grant the twenty-five-cent a day increase to 1,562 city laborers.

JUDGE MURRAY WARNS ATTORNEYS

After the calling of three cases with no response fro neither officers, witnesses, defendants, complainants or attorneys, Judge Murray in the Municipal Court today delivered this ultimatum from the bench: "I have been obliged repeatedly to send to get officers and attorneys whose cases are called. Some day someone will have to answer this inattention. If it continues there is only one thing I can do and that is to dismiss the cases."

TO GRILL SLAYER IN CELL

District Attorney Higgins of Middlesex County today resumed his efforts to corroborate the confession of James B. Jennings, better known as Kid Carter, that he killed Mrs. Mildred Donovan by strangling her near Holy Cross Cemetery, in Malden, on New Year's eve.

Medical Examiner Durell, Mr. Swan and Professor Whitney of Harvard, the medical men in the case, were seen by District Attorney Higgins in his examination of the inquiry today.

These physicians examined the body of the woman. Dr Swan and Professor Whitney are aware of the contents of Medical Examiner Durell's report, which, according to District Attorney Higgins, has not yet been made public in full.

When Medical Examiner Durell's full report is given out, the District Attorney hints, there will be some surprises.

He said the cause of death was given in the report as asphyxiation. He explained that asphyxiation may result from a number of causes, but said he would not at present tell what, in the opinion of the medical men with whom he will talk today, was the cause in the case of Mildred Donovan.

While District Attorney Higgins did not care to discuss at length the wound found on Mrs. Donovan's nose, he said it had nothing to do with the asphyxiation directly, being caused by a blow.

Hints of Jealousy.

The District Attorney is looking for a possible further motive for the murder. His talk with Frank A. Menard of Revere, stepfather of Mrs. Donovan, and with Mrs. Gertrude L. Menard, the mother, and Mrs. Myrtle Sears, sister of the dead woman, did not furnish him with a clew to any probable motive, he said, but there was reference to seeming jealousy on the part of Jennings, due to Mrs. Donovan's waving her hand to a man in Revere when she was boarding a car with Jennings the night she met her death.

Chester O'Connor, a neighbor of the Donovans, is said to have stood near the car track as Jennings and the young woman went aboard the car. The man waved his hand to her, and she waved back. Jennings did not appear to like the exchange of salutations, and is said to have expressed his disapproval, whether of the familiarity or of the acquaintance is not known.

Saw Them in Street Car.

Chester O'Connor says he knew Mildred Donovan well, and left home the night of the murder to visit a friend in Malden. "On entering I saw Mildred and Carter sitting in the middle of the car on the right-hand side," he explains. "She smiled and spoke to me, while I greeted her in return.

"I wanted to give Mildred a New Year's greeting when I entered the car, but as I didn't know her escort I decided I wouldn't, but waved my hand to her through the car window after she had alighted.

"She waved her hand to me in return. As the car started I saw her for the last time walking with Carter to the corner of Lynn street."

State Detective Silas Smith, who is aiding the District Attorney in his inquiry, has announced that he may interview Jennings in his cell at the Charlestown State prison, and have a talk with him regarding the crime to which he has confessed in Malden.

GLOUCESTER BOATS FINDING MACKEREL

Late news from the Gloucester mackerel fleet, now in Southern waters, is encouraging. Word was received at the Boston Fish Bureau today that nine vessels had put into Chincoteague, Va., with a total of 1,630 large fat mackerel. This is taken as an indication that the fleet is having the schooling fish and large catches will soon be reported.

MELLEN DENIES CHARGES

President Charles S. Mellen of the New Haven Road in an interview made public today, says:

Mr. Mellen indignantly repels the insinuations of the accountants of the Interstate Commerce Commission that he profited personally eight or nine years ago by transactions with the New Haven Road. He says:

Anybody who stops to think of the character of the men who constitute the New Haven board of directors will realize that the fact that those transactions have been audited and approved by the directors is sufficient proof of the absurdity of the charge.

The entire attitude of the accountants shows animosity, unwillingness to be advised as to the facts, and desire to draw hostile inferences.

During the five months the accountants have been at work on the New Haven books they have never passed a word with me or made the slightest inquiry of me as to the matters they now bring forward.

The attitude of the accountants in admitting as they did at the hearing that doubtless there is a perfectly satisfactory explanation of these transactions, for which they had never sought, and at the same time insinuating that my integrity is affected, I regard as a dastardly proceeding.

In view of the examination of the New Haven's accounts by the Commission of Commerce and Industry in 1909, the further examination by the Valuation Commission—including such men as Bank Commissioner Chapin and Professor Bonbright—in 1911, and the annual audit of the company's books by Price, Waterhouse & Co., this belated charge against me seems ridiculous and absurd.

LORD DOUGLAS LOSES IN OSCAR WILDE BOOK SUIT

LONDON, April 22.—A verdict in favor of the defendant was returned this afternoon in the libel action brought by Lord Alfred Douglas against Arthur Ransome, on account of the statements made in Mr. Ransome's book, "Oscar Wilde: a Critical Study."

The judges held that the Lord's character had not been hurt by these statements, one of which was that Wilde believed that Lord Alfred Douglas had contributed to his disgrace in life.

STATE HOSPITAL BILL REPORTED

A bill appropriating $504,000 for improvements at the Boston State Hospital was favorably reported today by the legislative Committee on Public Institutions.

SUFFRAGE WINS IN PENNSYLVANIA

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 22.—The resolution for a woman's suffrage amendment to the State Constitution was passed by the Senate here today by a vote of 26 to 22. The resolution has already passed the House.

Governor Foss has signed the bill extending the authority of the boards of gas and railroad commissioners over voluntary associations.

REJECT BARBER BILL.

The Committee on Ways and Means of the House, with Representatives Lomasney of Boston and Sanborn of Lawrence dissenting, today reported against the bill for the licensing of barbers and State regulation of barber shops.

PRIVATE HEARING REFUSED

Commissioner Charles A. Prouty of the Interstate Commerce Commission declared at the hearing in the Federal building today that the books, accounts and methods of doing business of the New Haven have been so interlocked and juggled that no one really knows what is the real financial condition of the road.

Mayor Hurley and Hat Turn Down Vaudeville Offer

Mayor John F. Hurley of Salem today turned down a flattering vaudeville offer for himself and his high hat to do "two-a-day." He says he has all he can do now with his Salem job.

"John F." received a letter today from C. Wesley Fraser, manager of the Boston office of the United Booking Offices, Inc., which books act for the Keith circuit. The letter read:

Dear Sir: Having learned that you appeared at the Federal Theatre, Salem, Sunday, April 13, with success and having read a great deal about the good you are doing in Salem, I take it upon myself to inquire if you would accept a few weeks of vaudeville engagement on the circuit we represent.

We would expect you to deliver a monologue, wearing your famous high hat. If this interests you, kindly make an appointment for further details and oblige, yours truly,

PRESIDENT HAS NARROW ESCAPE

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President and Mrs. Wilson narrowly escaped a serious automobile accident last evening when the White House automobile, darting across the tracks in front of a street car near the Capitol, missed collision by less than a yard. The jamming of the brakes by the motorman halted the car so suddenly that passengers were shaken from their seats.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Plague, raging at Guayaquil, Ecuador, is penetrating the interior of the country, and passengers for Quito and intermediate points are required to carry certificates of vaccination.

SEVERAL HURT IN RAILROAD WRECK.

RAVENNA, O., April 22.—A sleeping car on a fast train on the Pittsburg branch of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad overturned near here at noon today and several persons were hurt.

SENATE PASSES INDIAN BILL.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The House today passed the Indian appropriation bill, which was defeated last March by a Senate filibuster, and then adjourned until tomorrow.

WIDOW OF JUDGE I. W. SMITH DEAD

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 22.—Mrs. Amanda Smith, widow of Supreme Judge Isaac W. Smith, and who had the unique distinction of being the daughter of a Mayor, the widow of a Mayor and the sister of a Mayor of Manchester, is dead here at eighty-four years.

REVERE BOY SHOT BY A SCHOOLMATE

"Patsy" Nutile, sixteen, of No. 77 Tuttle street, Revere, is at the Frost Hospital, Chelsea, with a bullet wound in his right shoulder, the result of careless handling of a 32-calibre rifle by a schoolmate and neighbor, Vincent De Nunzio, fifteen.

3 THROWN OFF FIRE TRUCK IN MELROSE RACE

Engineer Thomas B. Stantial, the oldest active fire-fighter in the State, Assistant Chief Thomas J. Hawkes and Captain Charles F. Woodward, all members of the Melrose fire department, were thrown violently to the ground and seriously injured today when hose wagon No. 1 swerved into the electric car tracks while racing with an automobile to a brush fire.

Hawkes was taken to the Melrose Hospital unconscious. Internal injuries are feared. Stantial, who is seventy-seven years old, was badly shaken up and was taken home. Because of his age his condition is serious. Woodward was carried to the hospital with a fractured left arm.

Driver Dean Stockwell, the only other fireman on the racing apparatus, was not thrown from his seat. The machine had been racing along the side of the hose wagon on Main street. It was necessary for the driver to swing out at the corner of Porter street to allow the speeding automobile to pass. The wheels of the fire wagon caught in the electric car tracks. There was a sharp jolt and the three firemen were hurled through the air. The identity of those in the racing motor car is not known.

GERMAN MILITARY BIPLANE LANDS IN FRANCE NEAR NANCY

NANCY, France, April 22.—The Franco-German "war scare" got further impetus today by the landing of a German military biplane, piloted by two German army officers in uniform, at Arraguott, fifteen miles east of here and five miles west of the border of Alsace-Lorraine. The aviators said they were compelled to descend owing to lack of fuel. The machine was surrounded by an excited crowd and hostile demonstrations were made. French troops protected the stranger.

M. Cambon, French Ambassador to Germany, was today instructed by his government to ask the German Chancellor to prevent a recurrence of German aeroplanes or balloons landing on French soil.

LINER IMPERATOR GROUNDS IN ELBE

HAMBURG, Germany, April 22.—The Imperator, the newest, biggest and most gorgeous steamer afloat went aground in the Elbe river today near Altona while being taken to the Vulcan shipyard at Cuxhaven.

Officials of the Hamburg-American Line denied, however, that the ship had met with mishap, saying that her sailing had merely been delayed for several hours on account of low line trouble.

WOODBURY IS STILL LOVED BY FORMER WIFE

fence was cross-questioning her when Mrs. Beals made her declaration of love for the man from whom she is separated.

Could Not Forget.

Attorney Lewis asked: "You testified the other day that you still cared for Mr. Woodbury, did you not?"

"I said there is still a feeling for him, I could not forget him all of a sudden," Mrs. Beals promptly replied.

Many were refused admission to the court room today. Many of them were women. Mrs. Beals and a woman companion, who kept her identity secret, were the only women in the crowded court room today.

Mrs. Beals appeared in court today dressed entirely in black. She wore a close-fitting suit of black broadcloth. There was not a bit of bright color in her attire. Her dark hair was placed in thick coils under a small black turban, trimmed with black ribbon. While testifying she frequently glanced toward Woodbury. The latter watched her closely and their eyes frequently met.

Mrs. Beals was cross-examined by Attorney Lewis today relative to checks she had previously testified had been given her by Mr. Woodbury.

Offer AMERICAN'S Story.

Albert E. George or the AMERICAN staff followed Mrs. Beals on the stand today. He was called following the publication in last Sunday's AMERICAN of an interview secured by him from Mrs. Beals. He was questioned by Attorney Lewis and asked:

Q.—Do you know Mrs. Beals? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you visit her house on Saturday, April 19? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you talk to her? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where did you see her? A.—In her own parlor.

Q.—Did she refused to see you? A.—At first, yes.

Q.—Did she give you this interview? Attorney Lewis held up a copy of last Sunday's AMERICAN containing the interview and asked that it be introduced as part of the evidence.

Attorney Noyes, representing Mrs. Beals, objected. Judge Hitchcock sustained the objections, and Attorney Noyes began his cross-examination of Mr. George.

Q.—Which door did you go into Mrs. Beals' house? A.—From the door of the apartment opposite. This apartment is occupied by Mrs. Clifford.

Q.—What did Mrs. Beals say? A.—Nothing at first.

Q.—Did you show Mrs. Beals a clipping and ask her if these were her views? A.—Yes.

At this point Mr. Lewis again tried to have the copy of the interview introduced as evidence. Mr. Noyes again objected. Judge Hitchcock for the second time sustained the objections. The examination of the next witness began.

PRINCESS AUGUSTINE VICTORIA, eldest daughter of Prince Hohenzollern, who is to marry Manuel, the exiled King of Portugal.

BERLIN, April 22.—Is Princess Augustine Victoria of Hohenzollern, who is affianced to ex-King Manuel of Portugal, to be called Queen?

Some German experts on court questions say she will rank only as a Duchess with the title of royal highness, while others assert that, as Manuel retains the titles of king and majesty even at those courts, whose governments have officially recognized the republic of Portugal, his consort will share this courtesy title.

Little is known in Berlin of the bride, as her whole life has been spent in the south of Germany, but it is understood that she will bring to Manuel a substantial dowry, as her branch of the Hohenzollern family is wealthy. Its members financed the Roumanian throne, whose present occupant, King Charles, is a Hohenzollern Prince, and in 1870 were prepared to finance the candidacy of a Hohenzollern Prince for the Spanish throne, the dispute in regard to which brought about the Franco-German war.

Pittsburgh School Strike Against Heeter Spreading

PITTSBURGH, April 22.—The school children's strike against retention of S. L. Heeter as superintendent of the public schools continued to spread today.

Reports from practically every part of the city told of both boy and girl students refusing to re-enter the school buildings. The situation was manifestly serious.

An unidentified boy striker was run down and killed during a demonstration in front of the Halston school.

Superintendent Heeter last week was acquitted of the charges made against him by Ethel I. Fisher, a former domestic in his home, but the trial created much feeling against him and public demands have been made that he resign.

Thirty boys at the Fortice school, carrying signs, some of which read "Down with Heeter," "We Do Not Want Heeter." "Heeter Must Go," today paraded through the downtown streets.

Sulfragette Says She Was Ready to Kill with Pistol

LONDON, April 22.—Annie Bell, a militant suffragette, arrested outside of Holloway jail for carrying a loaded revolver, was fined $25 with the alternative of serving three weeks in jail.

When arrested the woman's behavior was so strange that the judge ordered an inquiry into her mental condition. She was found to be normal, but highly excitable. When arraigned the policeman who arrested the woman said that she was in a mood to do something serious.

"Yes, I would have killed any man who touched me or even spoke to me," interrupted the prisoner. She said she was doing "picket duty" in front of the prison.

Suffragettes varied their activities today by destroying motor boats at the Handsworth Park boathouse.

Tango Dancers at It Until 4 A. M.; Gaynor Ignored

NEW YORK, April 22.—The tango dancers and turkey trotters have struck up once more the same merry, all-night clip that caused the Mayor to slam the lid down.

"As we expected," said one restaurateur whose place was open until 4 o'clock Sunday morning, "the Mayor received his publicity as reformer, and is now willing to let up."

At none of the favorite habitats of the Broadway all-nighters did the customary policeman enter and enforce a closing Saturday night. Whatever be the cause of the Mayor's altered attitude, his orders now are being virtually ignored. Had the "closed-down" policy been adhered to, several of the restaurant men would have brought suits against the Mayor for heavy damages. Already the loss of the restaurants has been $800,000, at the most conservative figures."

POPE FREE FROM FEVER; DOCTORS TO CUT VISITS

ROME, April 22.—The Pope was much less troubled by his cough today, and he was also without fever. As this was the sixth successive day on which his temperature had not risen above normal, the physicians decided that they would be shortly able to limit their visits to once daily.

Weather conditions evidently influence the Pope's health to a great extent. Today was heavy and cloudy and a strong or dry wind, blew from Africa, all tending to depress the Pontiff greatly. In spite of this he was very anxious to resume work. This desire for activity is still the greatest difficulty with which the doctors and the attendants have to contend with, as they fear that if he is allowed to work a fresh relapse will occur.

Shortly after noon, when the weather became brighter, the Pope declared that he felt much better and he appeared to be in cheerful spirits.

Lynn Housewife Takes Poison When Maid Leaves Her

Mrs. Josie Emery, wife of Oscar H. Emery of No. 90 Union street, Lynn, drank poison early today following the departure of her maid in the midst of Spring housecleaning.

Mrs. Emery drank corrosive sublimate, but took an overdose, which probably saved her life. She is recovering now in Lynn Hospital.

Mrs. Emery was hurrying the house cleaning yesterday when the maid left. After supper Mr. Emery went to night work at a garage. Miss Gertrude Emery, the daughter, received permission to go to a motion picture show. When the daughter returned she found the doors locked. She was unable to arouse anyone, so she went to the home of a neighbor for the night.

Mr. Emery returned at 2:30 a. m. and found his wife unconscious in bed, with a half-pint bottle of the poison. Prompt action at the Lynn Hospital, combined with the effects of the overdose, brought Mrs. Emery out of immediate danger.

Harvard's Report Declares Eighteen Millions Invested

Harvard University is shown to be the wealthiest institution of learning in the land by the report of its financial department, made public today. At the close of the last fiscal year—June 30, 1912—the general investment account of Harvard stood at $18,681,888.

The gross income from the great investment in securities and mortgages was $797,636, compared with $670,890 income from tuition fees.

From its special investments, which comprise real estate and securities to the value of $3,930,044, gifts from various sources and the income therefrom, the university received an income of $171,870 compared with $148,134 in 1911.

During the fiscal year Harvard increased its ownership of American Telephone shares by 1,264, while 600 shares of New Haven railroad stock were sold.

50,000 TURKISH CAPTIVES FACE FAMINE DEATH

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 22.—Turkey and Greece have entered into negotiations for an exchange of prisoners of war.

These negotiations have been hastened by the fact that 50,000 Turks taken prisoners by the Greeks in Epirus are starving to death, the Greek commissary department not having enough food to supply them.

Travellers from the interior declare that in isolated regions not reached by telegraph or railroad, savage tribesmen are conducting a sanguinary campaign against Christian villages. It is impossible to estimate accurately the number of Christian victims, but they run into thousands.

It is feared that actual anarchy will spread throughout Albania. There is no recognized government except in districts where Servian troops administer martial law.

Boston Woman's Ashes Sent Here by Parcel Post

In accordance with her last wish, the remains of Miss Anna J. Walker, who died last week in Pasadena, Cal., were interred yesterday in Mount Hope Cemetery. Miss Walker, who was ninety-four, requested that her body be cremated and the ashes shipped across the continent by parcel post for burial.

Miss Walker was born in Boston on July 17, 1819. She came from an old Puritan family. Her early life was spent in this city, but in 1863, when all her relatives had passed away, she moved to Flushing, L. I., where her niece, Mrs. J. J. Fox, still lives.

Two years ago Miss Walker sustained severe injuries in a fall and her health was never fully recovered. As soon as she was able to travel she went to California, hoping that the climate there would be beneficial to her.

FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT OF COPPER

James P. Lydon, nineteen, of No. 86 Winthrop avenue, Revere, was found guilty of larceny of copper wire valued at $10 in the Chelsea District Court today. The case was continued till tomorrow for sentence. The wire was the property of the Suburban Gas and Electric Company plant in Revere. In attempting to elude arrest Lydon jumped into Belle Isle Creek and swam from one shore to the other, being in the water for over an hour.

DEBATE BILL ON SUFFRAGE IN BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, April 22.—The fight of the Socialist workmen of Belgium for universal manhood suffrage, which was begun with a national strike, was carried into the halls of Parliament today when debate was begun in the Chamber of Deputies on the Masson motion to appoint a commission to draft proposed electoral reforms.

A number of idle workmen returned to work today when the factories in which they were employed were able to resume work with coal imported from France. Almost half a million men are now out of work, although not all of them are voluntary strikers.

Rioting was reported today from the coal mining basin near Mons. Civil guards were attacked by strikers and several of them were struck by flying missiles. At Namur all the idle men have returned to work except the glass workers. The Socialist branch of the union is very strong among workers in the glass industry. Only the dock workers are now out at Bruges. All the property there is being guarded by armed troops.

M. Vandervelde, one of the strike leaders, denied that the resumption of work shows that the backbone of the strike is being broken. "The government is weakening," said the strike leader, "and the men are returning to work in the belief that their demands will soon be granted. We have demonstrated our strength without violence, and it is evident that we have made a great impression throughout Europe."

BALL-PLAYING IN HARVARD YARD IS NOW UNDER BAN

"No ball playing in the Harvard College yard," has gone forth at Harvard from Inspector Burke, chief of the grounds department, to the Harvard watchmen. No amateur nine can be organized, with University Hall for first base and the old Class Day Tree for the bull in centre field. Anything that looks even like a harmless game of "catch" is swooped upon.

Last year $500 was spent by the college authorities in remodding where students had played scrub ball or tennis.

PLAN FOR NEW TECH GOES TO CORPORATION

Plans for the $500,000 Walker Memorial and the social and gymnastic centres of the New Technology were today submitted to the M. I. T. Corporation by Dr. Harry W. Tyler and Dr. J. A. Rockwell. These plans were approved by the Alumni Council last evening. The report stated:

"The problem now is to make at the New Technology an adequate provision for the social needs of at least two thousand students in the near future. There is need of two buildings—the Walker Memorial and the Gymnasium. Close to the former there should be established the great students' Commons or restaurant.

"The Walker Memorial building should provide for the student activities with arrangements for dining and dancing. It should be of simple architecture and in harmony with the educational buildings, and have a basement and three stories. The great living room, extending through the building, should have an area of at least 2,500 feet. It is proposed to have an auditorium for about 500, libraries, billiard and card rooms, offices, accommodations for the faculty and in the basement a grill room, bathing facilities, bowling alleys and a small gymnasium.

"The proposal is to locate the gymnasium at the north end of the lot—Massachusetts avenue and Vassar street—with the athletic field running back along the latter street.

"The location preferred for the Walker Memorial is on the esplanade, near Massachusetts avenue."

LAUNCH 'MAHOGANY SCHOONER' RADIANT

The Radiant, known as "the schooner of mahogany," was launched today at Lawley's shipyard in Neponset. She is 80 feet in length and is the property of Clifford Hendricks of New York. The hull of the Radiant is finished entirely in mahogany with fastenings of copper and bronze. It will carry two tenders and launches of mahogany.

RENEW INQUEST ON BLAKESLEE GIRL'S DEATH

When the inquest into the death of Miss Helen A. Blakeslee, the Malden girl of twenty-two, who died of septic peritonitis in Malden Hospital three weeks ago, was resumed before Judge Sweetser in Malden District Court today it was found that three new witnesses had been summoned.

They were Henry M. Blakeslee, father of the dead girl; Herbert Dicks of Waltham, a friend of the family, and Clerk Wilfred Tyler of Malden District Court, who took the girl's ante-mortem statement.

The inquest, continued from April 12, was conducted by Assistant District Attorney Nelson P. Brown of Middlesex. The witnesses were questioned separately behind closed doors.

In addition to the three new witnesses there were several others who had been summoned at the time the inquest started. They included the following:

Dr. Clark, house physician at Malden Hospital.

Dr. C. D. McCarthy and Dr. F. W. Gay of Malden, who were called in consultation on Miss Blakeslee. With Dr. Clark they performed two operations in an effort to save her life.

Medical Examiners Thomas M. Durell of Somerville and William Swan of Cambridge, who performed the autopsy.

Inspector McKenna of Waltham, whose presence in the case is still a mystery.

Captain Timothy J. Foley and Inspector George E. Greenleaf of Malden police, who have been investigating the case.

HOMELESS YOUNG MOTHER ACCEPTS BROCKTON OFFER

The AMERICAN'S appeal for a home from a young mother and her two-weeks-old baby girl was answered today.

The mother is Mrs. Mary McCormack. Cold and hungry and homeless she walked the streets of Lynn. Indesperation she sought shelter in the police station. She was taken to the City House at Lynn, facing as black a future as a young mother ever faced.

Scores of letters offering Mrs. Cormack and her homeless babe a home were received by the young mother today. Among them was a Brockton widower, who wrote that his home was open to her if she would care to come as a housekeeper. Mrs. McCormack responded that she would go to Brockton just as soon as her strength permitted her to travel.

NEW HAVEN BOOKS KEPT TO HIDE REAL FACTS FROM PUBLIC, SAYS EXPERT

SENSATIONAL CHARGES MADE BEFORE COMMISSIONER PROUTY AT RATE HEARING

sioner. "In fact end-to-end investigations do not amount to anything. We have been through the books and we bring results here. We desire you to make any explanations you wish but whatever is done in public and the public have the benefit of hearing whatever is said.

Inside History at Hand.

"I believe that this is the first time that the inside history of your transactions has been known. Previous examination has been rendered almost impossible by the extremely complicated, and I think unnecessary, methods you have pursued in creating subsidiary companies almost without number and passing transactions from company to company in a way that seems to be utterly unnecessary.

Vice-President Buckland sought to delay the hearing, and to convince Commissioner Prouty that the railroad was not aware of the purpose which Mr. Brown's researches were to be used.

Commissioner Prouty checked Mr. Buckland with marked emphasis, and added that he himself had talked with an official of the railroad on the matter only on recently as three or four days ago.

Expert David E. Brown of Washington resumed the stand. Under questioning by Attorney Brandeis he showed that the New Haven Railroad had bought the two steamers Rhode Island and Connecticut from the Providence & Stonington Company. The Providence company valued them at $300,000 each. The New Haven paid $650,000 for them. They were later returned to the New England Navigation Company, another New Haven subsidiary, and listed as worth $650,000. Three years later they were scrapped for $44,000.

Louis D. Brandeis, counsel for the Fruit and Produce Exchange, promised at the resumption of the hearing that he would disclose the tangled system of high finance used by the railroad by which it juggled millions of stockholders' money from one hand to the other and blanketed the transactions by a system of bookkeeping so involved that it was almost impossible to unravel the records.

Purposely Concealed.

Mr. Brandeis said:

I propose showing that the Properties Securities Company was created for the distinct purpose of concealing the financial transactions of the New Haven.

. . . taking up the question of the income of this and other subsidiaries, companies owned or controlled by the New Haven, and not subject to public supervision. I propose going into the transactions by which the New England Navigation Company was acquired.

I also propose showing that the New England Navigation Company was not a holding company, but a shifting company used like a shuttle-cock, played back and forth to collect a financial transaction carried on by the parties in question.

I further propose to show that these alleged dividends were not paid out of the earnings of the companies concerned, but were paid directly out of capital.

In the year 1912 the alleged dividends of the New England Navigation companies were paid by money that only a few days before came directly from the New Haven Company itself.

I intend to show," said Mr. Brandeis, that within the past five years, beginning July 1, 1907, the New Haven reports of its earnings and deficits have been misleading and that the railroad has failed to make a proper depreciation not only in its operation of its steamship properties, but of its rail lines as well.

I charge that the railroad has made insufficient depreciation charges in the operation of its rail and water lines.

I further propose showing that while the railroad is supposed to have increased its earnings 15 per cent. during the past six years that the earnings of the steamship lines controlled by the railroad have fallen off 2½ per cent. during that time.

Also that our water transportation facilities have been constantly neglected to the extent that the people have lost the benefits they enjoyed six years ago; that steamships have been bought up and other steamship lines smothered and competition stifled by the New Haven, to the detriment of all citizens.

Commissioner Prouty then stated to Mr. Brandeis:

We shall hardly attempt to make a definite finding as to the merits of the New Haven company in detail. This is scarcely within the scope of the present investigation. We will not at this time try to run the matter down in all its details, but shall deal with it only in a general way to determine what the general policy of the company has been.

Mr. Brandeis then said:

But, Your Honor, I purpose to prove that the account rendered by the New Haven in June, 1912, showing a $12,000,000 surplus in the profit and loss account really is not a surplus. I purpose to prove that this so-called surplus is actually a deficit of $8,000,000 or over. Also that when proper allowance is made for the depreciation of value in the properties owned and controlled by the New Haven, that a still larger deficit exists instead of a $12,000,000 surplus in the profit and loss account.

I submit Your Honor, that we, the citizens of New England have got to know how this thing was brought about. The intrinsic values of these properties have constantly been decreasing because dividends have been paid out of capital.

It was just like pouring money into a hole—money that disappears and no one knows where it went to. I contend that this money was not spent; that heavy burdens have been placed on the community from which it receives no benefits by reason of the financial transactions which I have so briefly outlined today.

Truth Should Be Known.

If your honor has not sufficient time to permit the presentation of evidence bearing out these statements, I respectfully suggest that the entire matter, bearing on these details, later be referred to an examiner, who shall give to the public the entire truth as regards the manner in which the New Haven has conducted its affairs to the detriment of our people as a whole.

Vice-President Buckland of the New Haven, at the conclusion of Attorney Brandeis' statement to the court, opposed strenuously the suggestion of Mr. Brandeis. He said dramatically:

I submit, your honor, that this is not the time for a government investigation by scarehends.

We have all heard these familiar statements made by brother Brandeis. Time and time again, they have been investigated and disproved. There is no necessity for further investigations.

Vice-President Buckland in protesting at the cross-examination of Mr. Brown by Attorney Brandeis took a stand which Commissioner Prouty regarded as a direct plea for a private hearing.

Commissioner Prouty, with marked emphasis, silenced such a plea and declared that as it was the first real inquiry into the history of the New Haven and affiliated lines, everything connected with it should be as public as possible.

Mr. Buckland declared that the railroad interests were entitled first to proceed with the matter of rates before the examination of Mr. Brown by Attorney Brandeis took place.

Mr. Buckland—We feel that we are entitled to know such facts before the questions are put to Mr. Brown.

Commissioner Prouty—What do you mean by that?

Mr. Buckland—We contend that the inquiry by Mr. Brown was largely inferential."

Pleads Ignorance.

Commissioner Prouty—"Didn't Mr. Brown talk with your office? And ask officials of the road for information? Weren't you aware of everything which is testified to here?"

Mr. Buckland—"I beg your pardon. There were various measures about which we knew nothing until Mr. Brown told about them at this hearing yesterday. There were various special notes of Mr. Brown's, for instance.

Mr. Prouty—"Didn't Mr. Brown tell your officials that he wanted information, and wanted some things kept from him?"

Mr. Buckland—"He got whatever he desired."

Mr. Prouty—"I instructed Mr. Brown to pursue a line of inquiry which would give him all possible information. And I consider that he has done that. Any sub-rosa investigation at this time would not be proper. I believe in a public hearing."

Mr. Buckland—"I am not asking for a sub-rosa hearing, sir."

Mr. Prouty—"I desire that every fact be given to the public and that the public get the benefit of the investigation."

Mr. Buckland—"I think we should defer this examination until after we have had an opportunity to proceed with the question of rates. Take the matter of depreciation which has been commented upon by Attorney Brandeis. We consider that the New Haven has not done anything irregular in the keeping of its accounts. I don't understand that there has ever been any system formulated between the Interstate Commerce Commission and the railroads which could be construed as a general rule for a proper accounting. My knowledge of railroads has been that in handling the matter of depreciation the first and the common rule among railroads has been to make its property good and not to impair it. This system has been adopted by the New York Central, the Delaware & Lackawanna and other roads. I contend that the New Haven road has not deded any rule or law or agreement in this connection."

Want New Haven's Methods.

Mr. Prouty—The New Haven road may adopt a certain plan as to the record of its depreciation and other roads may have different methods of recording the same. What we want is the New Haven's methods at this hearing.

Mr. Buckland—I am pressing my request for a delay of Mr. Browne's examination on the ground that Mr. Brown did not intimate in anybody connected with the New Haven road the nature of his report which he has testified to at this hearing.

Mr. Prouty—What do you mean by that? I myself consulte da certain representative of your road and discussed subjects of this inquiry.

Mr. Buckland—"That was the last day or so, wasn't it?"

Mr. Prouty—"That was within three or four days. I discussed the Rhode Island company and other matters with your representative."

Mr. Buckland—"This statement of Mr. Brown should not be handled this way at this time. We should be entitled to an opportunity to examine Mr. Brown's testimony before he is cross-examined. After all, the people of New England are only interested in the rates, the service, the policy of the New Haven, and not its finances. The Boston & Maine should not figure at this time.

Objects to Brandeis' Plan.

Mr. Brandeis—May it please your Honor we ought to have quite a good deal to say about the Boston & Maine Railroad."

Mr. Buckland—"I object to Mr. Brandeis going as far as he wants to in his cross-examination of Mr. Brown, because I contend that this is not the time. I consider that we have the right of way as to rates and service."

Mr. Prouty! "This is the first time, Mr. Buckland, that the inside story of your company and its transactions has been inquired into. Whether the New Haven policies and financial methods have been right or wrong is a matter for the court. It is apparent upon the evidence already offered that the New Haven Railroad had an unnecessarily complicated manner of financing its business. It had a method of throwing its finances to subsidiary lines and passing the transaction from one to the other."

Mr. Buckland—I think the commissioner might be mistaken on this matter. Back of all this agitation is the blank wall at which Mr. Brandeis dashes forcibly again and again. I wish to remind you, Mr. Commissioner, that this hearing related to——

Mr. Prouty—I wish to remind you, Mr. Buckland, that this hearing was called by me to examine later the finances of the New Haven and its subsidiary companies. I wish to announce that the hearings will continue along that line. I wish to know how long it will take you to examine Mr. Brown, as I wish to give you and Mr. Brandeis an equal opportunity.

Mr. Buckland—I am not in a position to cross-examine Mr. Brown at this time.

Mr. Prouty—Do you intend to introduce any testimony in behalf of your side?

Mr. Buckland—No. I concluded when this hearing was adjourned in February or March that we would be thoroughly protected in this matted.

Time Given to Brandeis.

Mr. Prouty—What do you suppose I called for all these exhibits for? If I did not intend to proceed with the inquiry into New Haven finances?

Mr. Buckland—I supposed that we were to be given the right of way as to rates and service first.

Mr. Prouty— Mr. Brandeis, I regret that I cannot give you more time, but you may take the balance of the day in examining Mr. Brown."

Mr. Brandeis nodded his approval, Vice-President Buckland and General Auditor Tomlinson both smiled.

Mr. Mellen, the Public Wants to Know the Facts WHO GOT THE MONEY

MR. MELLEN, THE PUBLIC WANTS TO KNOW:

How and why you were able to buy and sell New Haven stock at "inside" prices, making a profit of $170,000.

Why the New England Navigation Company suddenly grew one day an "asset" of good will, valued at $3,000,000.

Why the New Haven road has an expense account eight times as large as the average railroad.

Who shared the $2,700,000 profits made by John L. Billard, the Meriden, Ct., coal man, in his sudden plunge into high finance by buying the Boston & Maine and selling it back to the New Haven.

Why the New Haven paid $24,000,000 for the Rhode Island Company, which at par would only have been worth $9,000,000.

What special service did the newspaper men, former legislators and men of that ilk perform for the New Haven at the State House? Having the privilege of the floor, was it a little acceleration of legislative opinion?

"It is most unfortunate," says your press agent, Mr. Mellen, "that the examination comes at this time, because New Haven officials must be content to sit back and hear the most serious attacks with no opportunity to answer."

You can waive immunity, Mr. Mellen, and come before the Interstate Commerce Commission and tell your story.

Or you can tell your side of the story in the AMERICAN, Mr. Mellen, and it will be printed, and the public may judge.

Mr. Mellen, the public wants to KNOW THE FACTS.

CASSIDY URGES BUTTER BILL BE PASSED OVER GOVERNOR FOSS' VETO

Governor Foss has vetoed the "honest butter" bill. On motion of Senator Charles E. Ward of Rockland, consideration of the Governor's veto message was yesterday postponed till Thursday. Mr. Cassidy today shows the effect of the Governor's veto, and urges that the bill be passed in spite of the objections of His Excellency.

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

Governor Foss yesterday vetoed the bill to forbid the sale of butter containing more than 16 per cent. of water.

When the Governor signed the veto message he struck a direct blow at every butter manufacturer in Massachusetts.

He struck a direct blow at every milk producer.

He struck a direct blow at every farmer's wife who derives her pin money from the butter and eggs the farm sells.

He struck a direct blow at every honest retailer or wholesaler of butter in the State.

And he struck a blow at every consumer.

On the other hand, Governor Foss administered a pat on the back to every one of the hundreds of little dealers who make a practice of watering their butter—as consistently as they water their milk—and for the same reason.

I do the Governor the credit to believe he did not realize these facts; for his veto message is a mass of misstatements and misinformation—supplied to him by the cellers who thronged his office last week and urged him to veto the bill.

Paying for Water.

The situation, briefly, is this:

The Federal revenue service forbids the interstate shipment of butter containing 16 per cent. of water. The Federal Department of Agriculture likewise forbids such shipment. The inspectors of both departments rigorously enforce these rules.

About 95 per cent. of all butter consumed in Massachusetts comes from outside the State. All that thus comes is subject to the Federal laws. Therefore, well over 80 per cent. of all butter sold in Massachusetts contains LESS than 16 per cent. of water when it is sold to the retailer.

The dishonest retailer, in hundreds of cases, makes a practice of taking a few pounds—perhaps half a tub—of butter, and working it over in water. The result is a substantial increase in the weight of his butter. The butter, after being worked over in this fashion, contains sometimes as high as 40 per cent. of water. At forty cents a pound you are paying seventeen or eighteen cents for water.

The bill Governor Foss vetoed would have STOPPED THIS FRAUD.

So long as this fraud is allowed to continue every honest butter manufacturer in Massachusetts suffers, because his dishonest competitor can undersell him. Therefore, the Governor hurt the butter manufacturer.

So long as this fraud is allowed to continue every milk producer suffers —because instead of selling his milk to make butter, the dishonest man can buy a little butter and work water into it. Thus the honest milk producer suffers from dishonest competition. Governor Foss refused to stop this dishonest competition.

Affects Farmers' Wives.

So long as this fraud is allowed to continue, every farmer's wife, selling her butter for pin money—suffers. For the dealer can buy twenty-five cents worth of butter from her—work it over with water and sell it for seventy or eighty cents.

So long as this fraud is allowed to continue every honest retailer of butter in the State, and every honest wholesaler, is at a disadvantage, because the dishonest retailer can mix his butter with water, and so far undersell the honest dealer. Governor Foss refused to protect the honest dealer from dishonest competition.

So long as this fraud is allowed to continue the consumer suffers, because the consumer who pays forty cents a pound for butter, and who has a right to expect that it will be honest butter, gets almost half water in his pound of butter in many cases. Governor Foss refused to protect the consumer from this fraud.

The man who mixes his butter with water picks the pockets of his customers and steals from every honest man or woman in the butter business. Governor Foss has refused to check this pocket-picking, thieving practice.

It is to be hoped the Senate will pass this bill over the Governor's veto, and that the House will do likewise.

NEW CHANCE TO GET EVERYBODY'S BIG CYCLOPEDIA

The great distribution of Everybody's Cyclopedia by the AMERICAN last week was an overwhelming success.

This week Friday and Saturday there will be another distribution at our branches, and we are taking steps to see that there will be a supply of sufficient sets, so that every reader will have a chance to get this wonderful reference work.

Everybody's Cyclopedia is beyond doubt the most useful set of books on earth. It is fully illustrated, with beautiful color plates, full page and double page engravings and text pictures. It represents the equivalent of a valuable library of reference books.

The price of the large Cyclopedia sets is usually so high—from $50 to $100—that they are always sold on the instalment plan. The publishers of Everybody's Cyclopedia took advantage of these facts, and from a revision of all these various large and good cyclopedias they have compiled all that is good, all that is necessary.

The regular price of Everybody's Cyclopedia is $12 a set, but next Friday and Saturday readers of the AMERICAN can have the set for only one coupon and $4.98, as explained in the cyclopedia coupon printed elsewhere in today's paper.

These sets are too bulky to be sent by mail, but out of town readers can have them for the same amount, $4.98, to be sent by express, shipping charges to be paid by the receiver.

HEALTH BOARD RAPS VETO OF BUTTER BILL

With a stringent law as to butter, "it would be possible to stop the operations of a small coterie of men in Boston who are producing butter which has been found to run as high as 30 per cent. water," according to a statement issued by the Boston Board of Health, which yesterday expressed regrets that Governor Foss vetoed the act to establish a standard for butter and oleomargarine. The board argues that his fears that such a law would be a handicap to the agricultural interests of this State were unfounded. The statement says:

This department in years past has analyzed butter that ran as high as 30 per cent. in moisture, the butter all being manufactured in this city. Complaint was made to the Court, under Sections 16 and 18, Chapter 75, of the Revised Laws, which states that food shall be deemed to be adulterated if any substance has been mixed with it so as to reduce, depreciate or injuriously affect its quality, strength and purity, but the courts have refused to entertain any action.

The passage of this act would have put the power in the hands of health authorities to stop this nefarious traffic in butter containing an exorbitant amount of water, a power which, under the present laws, they have not got.

This board does not agree with the Governor, that it would require exhaustive laboratory tests, at a cost of from $2 to $5 a test, to determine the moisture content of butter, as in the government service this is done by laymen, who, after a little coaching, can readily perform it. An evaporator and scales being the only apparatus necessary.

This apparatus can be purchased for about $15, and as there are no chemical reagents used, there is no extra cost for each analysis.

CHANGES IN B. & M. OFFICES ORDERED IN EFFECT MAY 1

The following changes in the engineering department of the Boston & Maine Railroad are announced to take place May 1: Charles R. Chevalier is transferred from Nashua, N. H., to have charge of the division of the St. Johnsbury & Lake Champlain Railroad; he will be succeeded at Nashua by A. C. Stickney of Boston. G. Mills is appointed inspector of the Eastern Division with headquarters in Boston.

NEW TARIFF BILL WITH DUTIES CUT 10 PER CENT REPORTED IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 22.—That the American manufacturer, spurred by a competitive tariff to greater activity to retain control of his home market, will increase his efficiency to such an extent that he will make new trade conquests abroad, is the prediction of the Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee who framed the Underwood tariff bill.

Their report, signed by fourteen Democratic members of the committee, was presented to the House today. They estimate that for the first fiscal year following the passage of the bill the receipts of the government will be less than the disbursements by $68,700,000. To meet this deficit the income tax has been framed, and it is estimated that the revenue from this tax will be $70,125,000.

According to the committee's estimates the customs revenues from the Underwood bill will be $27,800,000 less than the customs receipts from the Payne law in 1912.

How Rates Change Totals.

It is estimated that the chemical schedule of the new bill will produce $12,985,000 as against $12,239,742 in the Payne law; the earthen ware schedules $9,497,000, as against $11,156,221; the metal schedule $15,549,000, as against $17,346,221; wood schedule $808,000, as against $3,042,834; sugar schedule $40,196,000, as against $50,951,000; tobacco schedule $26,002,000, as against $25,571,000; agricultural $23,567,000, as against $34,146,000; spirits $20,987,000, as against $17,460,000; cotton $11,257,000, as against $11,055,000; flax hemp and jute $15,977,000, as against $40,062,000; wool $12,774,000, as against $27,082,000; silk $16,212,000, as against $12,895,000; pulp and paper $2,957,000, as against $4,886,000; sundries $59,952,000, as against $26,921,000.

The average reduction in duties from the present Payne law to the Underwood bill by schedules are as follows:

Chemicals from 25 to 19 per cent, earthenware 50 to 33, metals 34 to 20, wood 12 to 5, sugar 48 to 35, agricultural 20 to 16, spirits 83.98 to 83.30, cotton 45 to 30, flax 45 to 20, wool 55 to 18, silks 51 to 44, pulp and paper 21 to 11, increases tobacco 82 to 85, sundries 24 to 33.

Average Cut of 10 Per Cent.

It is estimated the amount of dutiable importations under the bill would increase in value from $759,209,915 to $798,956,000. The average duty under the Payne law is 40.12 per cent., as against an estimate average duty under the Underwood bill of 29.00 per cent.

Under the income tax law it is estimated that 425,000 incomes, including corporations as well as individuals, will be taxable. The greatest amount of revenue, according to that calculation, will be derived from incomes within the range from $2,000 to $100,000. Over 100 incomes taxable at 1 per cent., as well as 1, 2 and 3 per cent. surtaxes, are included in the reckoning.

The income from the tax on these immense incomes will bring in all told $5,826,000. The committee estimates that 126,000 incomes between $4,000 and $5,000 will be subject to the one per cent. tax yielding $630,000. According to the estimates, however, the greatest number of taxable incomes will be in the range of $5,000 to $10,000. These will yield to the government if the expectations of the committee calculators are borne out by experience, $5,340,000.

"In the light of the experience of other countries," the report continues, "we recommend the passage of this income tax provision in the confident belief that as soon as this tax and its administrative machinery become fairly understood by the people and adjusted by the country its operation and effects will meet with as much general satisfaction as any tax law."

The report calls attention to the increase in the cost of living since the Dingley tariff law went into effect and the development of industrial combinations or trusts. The protective system of the last decade is blamed for these conditions, and also for a too rapid diminution of the natural resources of the country. The tariff has been so high that industry has actually impaired according to the report.

Will Stimulate Modern Methods.

"There is another serious condition," the report points out, "which must be directly attributed to the tariff, but of which little is usually said. This is the existence of obsolete plants and methods in many lines of industry, old machinery and out-of-date methods being continued in operation years after they have been practically eliminated elsewhere. The information in the hands of the committee strongly confirms the belief that there is rarely a high protected industry in which a considerable percentage of the plants and machinery are not hopelessly behind the times. These conditions constitute one of the strongest arguments in favor of rectifying the conditions complained of by applying the impetus of moderate competition. The bill seeks to accomplish this."

MRS. A. J. GEORGE, who has returned to Boston to organize a war of women against equal suffrage.

Women Will Wage Bitter War Against Extending Ballot

Today will mark the beginning of a relentless campaign by anti-suffragists against their sisters who are fighting for the ballot.

With the arrival home of Mrs. A. J. George, who is the organizing secretary of the Massachusetts branch of the National Association Opposed to Women Suffrage, steps will be taken to perfect a big and effective organization in Boston. Mrs. George has been attending the conference of the anti-suffragists in Washington.

With her were one hundred or more women from various parts of the country who believe that their fair sex does not require or desire the ballot. It was agreed to start a sort of flying wedge that would make an impression on the Senate woman suffrage committee. Briefly the antis plan to oppose every step made by the suffragists.

May Tax Morgan Good Will Legacy at Eight Millions

NEW YORK, April 22.—Perhaps the most delicate and interesting problem that has confronted the State Comptroller's office is offered by the will of J. P. Morgan, which will be formally proved today. The problem is this: What value shall be placed on that asset of the estate known as good will?

Under the law good will is subject to an inheritance tax the same as any other asset. It will be to their interest and that of the estate not to permit of any exaggeration, for the transfer tax is 4 per cent. and on the entire estate will be very large—possibly $4,000,000—unless Governor Sulzer succeeds in his plans to have the art collections exempted. It is thought that the good will of Mr. Morgan may be appraised as high as $8,000,000, in which case the tax payable to the State would be $320,000.

AHERN BACK, IS UNABLE TO TELL OF TRIP

Fred Ahern, the young Cohasset coal dealer and grand knight of Cohasset Council, K. C., who has just been brought home after disappearing two weeks ago from Dover, N. H., is able to give no details of his whereabouts, except that he started for Dover depot to get a train for Boston and woke up in a hospital cot in Columbus, O.

In Columbus Mr. Ahern was only able to tell his name and address and that he was a Knight of Columbus. Hospital authorities told members of the Columbus council of the order, and brother knights made arrangements to bring Mr. Ahern home as soon as he was able to travel.

He was accompanied from Columbus by an Ohio knight. Mrs. Ahern met them in the South Station and took her husband home.

Mr. Ahern is too weak yet to see any friends, but the few details given above have been told by members of the family.

The grand knight of Cohasset council went to Dover to participate in degree work of Dover council. When he failed to return home the next day inquiries were made. Later the police were notified, and a general search was instituted.

It was learned in Dover that Mr. Ahern had started for [illegible] all trace of him was lost until his mother received a letter the latter part of last week from Columbus, notifying her of her son's illness there.

Debility Shatters a Body Like Civil War Disturbs a Country

Every Organ Must Unite to Work Under the Leader, the Brain, in Order to Promote Perfect Health in Every Portion of the Body—Nervous Debility Disrupts the System So That Harmony No Longer Exists and Disease Must Follow—Tona Vita Restores Peace Again.

Nervous debility is to the human body what Civil War is to any country. When the brain loses control of the various organs, then instead of working in harmony, the different organs abuse each other, and the end is bound to be disease.

Nervous debility, which is caused by overtaxation of the mind and body, is especially prevalent in the United States.

It is too frequently neglected, and the symptoms, which denote its presence, are hardly severe enough to get worried about. The reason for this is that symptoms of any disease are all felt through the nerves, and naturally should the nerves become diseased, they are less sensitive to abnormal conditions, and the symptoms are consequently deadened.

Nervous debility has many symptoms, and may be denoted by any one of the following:—loss of weight, a tired feeling on waking up in the morning, loss of appetite, sleep that is broken and restless, being startled by any sudden sound and that general run-down feeling.

Tona Vita, which can be obtained at all drug stores in Boston, is being highly recommended by many who have found relief by using this tonic.

GOV. BALDWIN SEES A PROTESTANT-CATHOLIC MERGER

HARTFORD, April 22.—Governor Baldwin predicted here that all Protestant denominations would become reunited, and that ultimately the Protestants would, through Lutherism, become allied with the Roman Catholic Church.

"The Lutheran communities in their view of the Lord's Supper," the Governor said, occupy a position nearer that of the Roman Catholic than that of any other Protestant communion. They could, therefore, fitly assume a mediatorial position."

VETERANS GREAT HELP TO MAINE MEMORIAL FUND

The generous response of the Spanish War Veterans throughout the State to the appeal for funds to complete the monument to the battleship Maine and her brave soldiers is remarkable testimony to the patriotism of the veterans.

Many of these men are in difficult circumstances, yet they have cheerfully contributed their halves and dollars where richer citizens have turned away.

Contributions are being sent to New York as fast as they come in and will be acknowledged every few days. Mr. William Randolph Hearst has made the task of the Maine Committee very much lighter for he has volunteered to pay dollar for dollar to all that is contributed and thus bound himself to pay half the total deficit of $40,000.

The Maine Monument will be dedicated on Memorial Day. It has the finest location in New York, at Columbus Circle, Central Park and Fifty-ninth street.

The reason for locating the monument in New York instead of Washington or even Augusta, Me., was because the committee wished it to be placed where it would be seen by the most people. New York is the largest city in the United States and the gateway of the western world. The millions of visitors to New York every year will be impressed by this extraordinary testimonial to the sailors and soldiers of the Spanish War.

G. BERNARD SHAW HITS AT SMOKERS

LONDON, April 22.—"People who smoke," said G. Bernard Shaw, the playwright, today, "not only should not be allowed to go to theatres, but should not be allowed to go anywhere and should not be allowed to exist." He might compromise on smoking pens, he adds.

Girl Cops Now Keeping Order at Radcliffe

The latest feature at Radcliffe College is the student 'cop," who is to keep order in the class rooms.

Heretofore the Radcliffe girls have been on their honor to maintain decorum at recitations, be on time and not chatter when the professor is lecturing.

While the fair collegians are honorable, still it has been found desirable by the Radcliffe Student Government Association to appoint an order committee, as follows:

Maud Russell '13, Mildred Nason '15, Ruth Wadman '14, Katharine Key '15, Mary Cooper '14, Francisca Warren '15, Eunice Allen '16, Frances Billings '13.

Assistants have been named to represent the order committee in every class room. The college girls are notified to observe the following rules:

1. Girls should not talk while the professor is talking.
2. Girls should be seated and quiet as soon as they come into the room.
3. Girls should not be late to classes—i. e. enter after the professor has begun his lecture.

The student "cops" of the order committee are to see that the above rules are observed.

DEVOTE FUND TO GAELIC REVIVAL

Artistic High-Class Furniture Is Our Hobby

This does not mean high prices, as nowhere can such merchandise be bought cheaper than from Summerfield—The House of Dignified Credit.

We have furnished thousands of pretty homes the past year, furnished them right, economically and well; furnished them with good, well-made furniture. It is a well-known fact that in the short time we have been in Boston we have furnished the many homes we have because we are a credit house that actually does sell goods on credit for less than cash houses demand for cash. Our tremendous buying capacity, our belief that small profits and many sales will bring the greatest number, is one of the secrets of our great success. Furthermore, there is no better furniture in the world than the kind we handle. No man or woman can secure help from cash houses. They care nothing about the state of your finances, they want your almighty dollars. We, on the other hand, give you credit—the dignified kind—an accommodation that almost everyone needs at one time or another. Think this over. Come in, say today or any day, and let us convince you that you will do better at Summerfield, the house of dignified credit.

A SHOWER OF BARGAINS

TOMORROW ALL OVER THE STORE

April showers, probably, is the weather report for Wednesday. This shower of bargains will be long remembered—Bargains worth coming for, rain or shine.

A year ago today the records show about three times the usual day's business. With this enlarged store, and these extraordinary preparations, it is natural to expect an even greater business tomorrow. Bargains from all 75 departments. These advertised in the American, and others in the Traveler, Herald and Post.

$15 Corduroy Dresses at $7.50

Samples—Fine quality silk-finished corduroy dresses, trimmed with contrasting silk colors and white corduroy Robespierre collars; patent leather belts, long sleeves and high-waisted effects; sizes 14 to 40.

$10 Whipcord Coats $4.98

Full length, in black, navy or brown; belted back, collar and cuffs, ratine and button trimmed; yoke lined with self material; sizes up to 44.

$15 to $18 Spring Suits $11.50

For women; included in this lot are 55 white fine all-wool serge suits, in this season's newest tailored styles; also a complete line of sizes of suits, in navy, brown, black and other good colors.

$4.00 Mohair Skirts $2.49

Two styles, made of fine lustrous mohair, panel back, overlap side seam with cluster of four plaits; or plain-tailored two-piece model, button trimmed; all sizes, in black, navy and gray.

$1.00 to $1.50 Kid Gloves 79c

For women, including kid, suede, doeskin and mocha gloves; slightly broken assortments, but all sizes in the lot; tan, white, black, gray, mode, brown, champagne and navy kid gloves in a variety of embroideries; gray and black suede gloves, white washable doeskin gloves and gray mocha gloves.

Women's $2.50 to $4 Shoes 98c

1200 pairs, mostly small sizes or narrow widths. The entire lot consists of makes, styles and qualities that formerly sold for $2.50 to $4. Only because each lot and style has sold down to a few scattering sizes are we able to sell the remainder at such an absurdly low price. The lot contains boots, oxfords, ties, pumps, house shoes and slippers—of every leather and kind. Sizes run mainly from 1 to 4½—a few larger—and mostly narrow widths. (Of course, no C. O. D. or mail orders can be filled or exchanges allowed.)

Children's $1.50 to $2.50 Shoes 65c & $1.00

Also misses' sizes, all of excellent quality and the best makes—yet because the widths are narrow we offer the entire lot at these greatly reduced prices.

$1 to $1.50 Dress Goods 79c

Colored, including $1.50 worsted panama, 54 in. wide, in brown, navy and black; $1.00 imported diagonals, 44 in. wide, in copenhagen, navy, brown and black; $1.00 French cashmere, 42 in. wide, in wanted colors, and $1.00 French novelty cloths, 42 inches wide.

$1 and $1.20 Linings 79c

Including 36-in. satin, in black and colors; 36-in. black messaline, and 36-in. black taffeta.

12½c and 19c Wash Goods 9c

32-in. Zephyr ginghams, in plaids, checks, stripes and plain colors; 36-in. standard percales, in light and dark grounds; 27-in. Idealean flannel, in wide range of styles, including neat shirting stripes; and dotted swiss, fancy batiste and swiss applique, in light and tinted grounds.

$1.00 to $2.00 Waists . . 62c

A wonderful collection—$2.00 chiffon waists, in size 36, black over white; $1.50 white linen waists, with blue linen sailor collar; $1.00 natural linen, with round collar; $1.00 linon, with striped trimming; $1.00 striped gingham, with collar of chambray; and $1.00 white linon waists, with allover embroidery collars.

RAID DUGOUT AT ATTLEBORO FOR SLAYER

ATTLEBORO, April 22.—Five armed policemen of Attleboro and of Cumberland, R. I., made a raid in the darkness, between midnight and dawn today, upon a tramps' dugout in Red Rock woods, in efforts to find the murderer of Mrs. Eugene L. Colbert.

If any murderer was hiding in the fastnesses of Red Rock he took warning at the approach of the searching party and fled, for the five policemen found only one tramp, somewhat under the influence of liquor, but he managed to convince the officers of his innocence of this murder.

Police Chief Charles E. Wilbur, who was discharged from a hospital only last Friday, was too weak to undertake such a raid as this.

But the chief gave detailed instructions to Eli Mills, Edmund Gingras and Edward E. Gobin of the Attleboro police, and to George Scott and Philip Landry of Cumberland, who came here to reinforce the local detail.

Well armed, the five men left here at 12:30 in an automobile. They carried five lanterns, to be used in search in the woods. They drove to a point near the home of John D. Powers and of Miss Mary Powers, who were both wounded the same night Mrs. Colbert was killed.

FORMER WIFE HAPPY; SINCLAIR MARRIES AGAIN

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., April 22.—While his former wife is happily living with Harry Kemp, the "Tramp Poet," in a bungalow on the bank of the Manasquan River, a mile west of Point Pleasant, New Jersey, Upton Sinclair, Socialist and author, is equally happy on his honeymoon with his second wife, who until yesterday was Miss Mary G. Kimbrough, of Greenwood, Mississippi, daughter of Judge and Mrs. A. McC. Kimbrough.

The life story, the trials, and the experiments in sociology, psychology, civic and marital life, made by the Sinclairs after his first marriage, have furnished interesting reading for some time. Mr. Sinclair will take his bride to Holland.

Meanwhile, following his divorce from his first wife because of her affection for the Tramp Poet, Mrs. Sinclair No. 1, Meta Fuller, declared that the present state of affairs suited her exactly.

"Harry and I are congenial," she declared. "Our tastes are similar, and temperamentally we are much more alike than are Mr. Sinclair and myself. My friendship with Harry Kemp I have pursued more conspicuously than my friendship with other men."

The Sinclairs tried many ways of living. They have lived in tents, in bungalows, in model villages, in communities, in Chicago stockyards and in civilization.

When Upton Sinclair first met Meta Fuller he was making his way through the College of the City of New York, by writing sensational stories for children.

They lived in a tent until Mrs. Sinclair's health gave way, and they were forced to abandon this "Cave-Man's" life. Sinclair had but $3 in the world when they were married.

He has more than $3, however, after the sale of his first successful, and equally sensational book exposing the stockyard disgrace of Chicago. It was called "The Jungle" and was widely read throughout this country.

During the time when Sinclair was writing his novel, his wife went through every sort of privation with him. She endured all kinds of conditions of living, and helped him gather his material, even in the worst places.

During their trial for divorce, two years ago, Mrs. Sinclair declared:

"There is a higher ideal than a paid Supreme Court Justice's opinion. I can sum up my views of life in two words—love and freedom; freedom to place my love where I care to, and love to have my freedom."

MRS. UPTON SINCLAIR, author's wife, who was Miss Mary G. Kimbrough, a society beauty of the South.

DR. FRIEDMANN SEEKS TEST TO PROVE CURE

NEW YORK, April 22.—Dr. Friedmann is stirred by the claim that some of his subjects show temporary relief, simply because of their confidence. He challenges Dr. A. N. Stimson, the government expert, to a practical test.

Dr. Friedmann proposes that the government select ten cases for the test; that five of the subjects receive the turtle vaccine treatment and five injections of sterile water. Then the plan outlined is to place the names of the subjects in sealed envelopes and permit the ten to believe that they had all been treated with the vaccine. Such a test, said Dr. Sturm, Dr. Friedmann's assistant, would soon show that the mind wasn't an important factor.

LARNER, ACCUSING GIRL'S BROTHER, TELLS STORY OF LOVE DUEL

Marshall Larner, father of Herbert S. Larner, the Cambridge boy who was stabbed in a "duel" with William J. Rounds, Jr., after a quarrel concerning Lillian Rounds, the latter's sister, is determined to push the prosecution of the Rounds boy.

Attorney Thomas J. Harry will represent Mr. Larner, who says he is dissatisfied with the methods of the police in conducting the case. He has called upon the Mayor of Cambridge and Commissioner of Public Safety Cunningham to assist in the prosecution. A conference between the commissioner, Chief Inspector P. J. Horley and Inspector Michael Nellan was held after Larner's visit to City Hall.

Larner's Story of Duel.

Young Larner today told his own story of the duel:

The talk of my having been ordered from the Rounds home is not t , and my paying attentions to Miss Rounds is not the cause of the trouble. I have not called there since last Thanksgiving.

Bill's treatment of his sisters is the whole cause of the trouble. I had been told time and time again of his irritable and tyrannical actions. They date away back. Miss Rounds told me of it often, and I spoke to him as often. He and I were chums at one time. When I spoke to him of his actions he always managed to pass it off with some sort of easy apology.

Why, I have seen Miss Rounds' arm all black and blue from the bites and blows she said Bill caused. He even used her manicure scissors and jabbed her arm. I saw the arm myself, and the marks of the scissors. Only a week or so before the fuss I was told that a bad struck Miss Rounds at the dinner table, and also a girl friend. No one, according to what Miss Rounds told me, ever tried to stop him. He ruled the house.

I met Bill Tuesday, the day before the trouble, and again spoke to him, saying, 'You should stop it.' Wednesday morning at breakfast, so I was told, he again struck the girls, Miss Rounds and Fanny, and they told him he was a coward and wouldn't dare strike a man. They said they would tell me, and he told them 'Go ahead; bring him down here tonight and I'll show him, too.'

Never Intended Fight.

At school that morning, Miss Rounds told me and I said that I would go down and meet him. I never intended that there should be a fight. What Bill needed was a good talking to. Things had got so bad that it was time some one took him in hand.

The papers have said that I am a prizefighter. It's ridiculous. I took a few boxing lessons from Dave Deshler, whom I have known for eight or more years, same as any fellow would. When Dave was not training for a match he used to show me how to spar.

I left my house about 6:30 Wednesday night, walking through to Putnam avenue, to Western avenue and down the parkway. I met Miss Rounds and her sister. It was getting dark and the parkway was lighted. There was no sign of any one and I thought that Bill had perhaps changed his mind and was not going to come.

We walked along a little way and Bill and Miss Grogan came in sight. When they were a few feet away Bill made a rush at me, and with his right hand lunged at me, direct at the face. I dodged and got the blow at the ear, and it was lucky for me that I dodged, as it afterward turned out.

Saw the Knife.

Bill got in more than one of these lunges before I could land a blow myself. I struck out to save myself, but at the time it never occurred to me that he had a knife. There wasn't a word exchanged between either of us up to this time. It was dark and I couldn't see very well.

I suddenly felt blood trickling down my face and neck. I reeled and fell toward the bushing and, as I got up, I saw the knife in Bill's hand. I grabbed his wrist and shouted, "He's using a knife."

The girls, Miss Rounds and Miss Grogan, then rushed in between us and it was all over. When I yelled about the knife, Bill said, "You've got more beef than me, but the knife makes us even." He had the knife then, and slowly walked away.

The girls took me to the Grogan house and I don't remember much more except that I remember seeing my coat, which was cut in places where the knife had gone through. I don't know where Fanny went.

The doctors told me the stab in my neck on the right side, just missed the jugular vein or it would have been all over with me. The wound in my stomach, they said, is three-quarters of an inch deep and almost touched the intestines. The wound at my ear is the one I got by dodging, or my face would have been cut.

"I never bit Bill's finger, as he claims. I don't do things that way; it isn't in me. And the talk about my hitting him below the belt, as the papers put it, isn't true.

Christianity in China Only Fad?

LONDON—The missionary societies are not wholly satisfied or elated over the recent signs of the growth of Christianity in China. A prominent secretary of one of these societies said today that the rapidity of the change over to Christianity had created doubts as to its sincerity and permanence.

He feared that it might have been fostered officially for political purposes and had become merely a fashionable cult.

SCHOOL ROMANCE IN MEDFORD WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Marion Louise Chase of Medford to George P. Fuller (Tufts '10) of Niagara Falls, formerly of Medford, in the West Medford Congregational Church this evening, will unite schoolday playmates. They attended the grammar grades together and were both in Medford High school class of 1906. Then Miss Chase went to Simmons College and Mr. Fuller to Tufts. Miss Chase is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Chase of No. 7 Alfred street.

FIND $1,000 LAUNCH ON GEORGES BANKS

Captain Charles Nickerson of the fishing schooner Washakie, which arrived at 7 Wharf today, reported that one day last week he picked up a new thirty-foot gasolene boat on Georges Banks, fifteen miles north of the Cultivator Shoal. The Washakie towed the launch for four days, but found it in a gale when it turned turtle and the tow line parted. The boat was white and equipped with an eight-horsepower motor, but had no identifying marks. Its estimated value was $1,000.

It's Good Business Practice

When you feel that it's time you had a new suit of clothes, the business-like way is to look around—see what's being shown—see where best values are being offered. Just because you've always bought in some particular store is no reason why you should continue to do so.

We like to have men go looking elsewhere before they come here. It makes them better able to appreciate the smarter styles, the better service and the greater value-giving for which this Live Store is noted.

It gives them a better idea of the superiority of those fine clothes made by

The House of Kuppenheimer

We know from long experience that Kuppenheimer Clothes serve our customers right. They are just as good as they look to be—and no one has ever questioned their superior appearance. They are the foundation upon which we have formed and kept many warm friendships—and expect to form and keep many more. The prices range from $18 to $35 with many important numbers at

SOX OPEN SERIES WITH WASHINGTON MINUS JOE WOOD

INJURED HAND MAY KEEP WOOD OUT OF GAME

BATTING ORDER TODAY.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—With Joe Wood on the injured list, the world's champions were so blue that their red hose almost changed color when they came over to Washington today.

Wood's hand was injured, sliding into third base in the Athletics' game yesterday. The accident cost the Sox another ball game. It is feared that the star upon whom Stahl had relied to win at least one of the games from the Senators will be unable to pitch at all here.

Ray Collins was booked to pitch today. He had a discouraging task ahead of him. The Senators blew in from New York, leading the league with an unbroken record of victories.

Senators in Great Shape.

True, the only competitors the Senators have faced have been the Yankees, but Frank Chance's organization proved much stronger than New York produced last year, so the Nationals were confident of giving Stahl's champions a grueling in the four games series that opened today.

Washington has always been tough going for the Red Sox in the early season, and Griffith counted on cleaning up enough games from the Bostonians to start West leading the pennant race.

Just to be sure of making it four out of five from Boston in Philadelphia yesterday, Comiskey Mack sent Eddie Plank to the mound with two out in the ninth and Eddie forced Wagner to roll an easy one to Barry and the Athletics triumphed 6 to 4.

Up to the time that Plank came to the rescue, Byron Houck had been setting the pitching for the Mackmen. It was wonderful how Houck got away with it as long as he did. He passed nine batsmen, hit another, had two errors and a passed ball behind him and allowed seven hits, but always managed to keep his head above water. He passed three men in one inning, yet Boston didn't score.

Boston went fine while Wood was on the mound but not so well when he gave way to Bedient. Wood did not receive a hit in his hand sliding into third in the second inning and tried to pitch the third session, then gave up.

Sox Score in Second.

Strunk was placed on the injured list when he threw his weight into Wagner in his attempt to score in the sixth. Wagner took Speaker's throw from the outfield and blocked the plate. Strunk and Wagner piled up like a football scrimmage and Strunk had to be carried from the field.

Boston's three runs in the second inning were made after the side should have been retired. Wagner, first up, fanned. Murphy misjudged Nunamaker's fly and the hit went for two bases. Then Barry missed Wood's scounder. Hooper came along with a double and Nunamaker scored. Yerkes flied to Strunk, who made a perfect throw to the plate which Lapp muffed and Wood scored the second run.

Speaker drew a pass and on the hit and run Lewis singled and Hooper scored. Lewis was caught stealing, retiring the side.

Boston did not score again until the ninth. Yerkes was out, Barry to McInnis, and Speaker got four wide ones. Then Lewis fanned and Gardner singled, scoring Speaker. A passed ball by Lapp and four balls to Engle caused the retirement of Houck and Plank went in. Wagner was the third out, Barry to McInnis.

Coach Wray Makes Big Shakeup in Harvard Crews

Coach Wray has made a big shakeup in his Harvard crews. Pirnie has been put back at stroke, where Chanler rowed all last week. Morgan has been placed at No. 7 for the first time, having been in the bow of the boat heretofore. Goodale is at No. 6, having been moved up from No. 4, where he rowed for the last two seasons. Mills is the only man in the first boat who retains his seat, at No. 5. Harwood, now at No. 4, was formerly at No. 6.

The new man at No. 3 is MacVicar, who was promoted from the second boat, where he rowed on the other side of the boat. At No. 2 is Trumbudd, also brought from the second boat, and Reynolds is at bow, where he rowed recently. Captain Charles Abeles is coxswain in this boat.

In the second boat the order is: Chanler, stroke; H. Meyer, 7; G. Meyer, 6; L. Curtis, 5; Taylor, 4; Stratton, 3; Murray, 2; Carver, bow; A. Abeles, coxswain. In the practice last week Chanler and H. Meyer were at stroke and No. 7 in the first boat.

GARCELON WANTS INTERNATIONAL MEET ON JUNE 19

William F. Garcelon, athletic advisor of Harvard's athletics, in speaking of the invitation sent by the undergraduate bodies of Harvard and Yale for an international dual track meet with the athletes of Oxford at Cambridge, says that he has asked that the meeting be held in the Harvard Stadium, Soldiers Field, June 19. He also has asked that two extra events, 220-yard dash and shot put, be added to those which were contested in 1912.

The events contested two years ago were 100 yards, 440 yards, 880 yards, one-mile and three-mile runs, 120 yards high hurdles, running high jump, running broad jump, and throwing the 16-pound hammer.

MITCHELL'S SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS

IT is expected that Captain Bill Sweeney will be back in the game today. He has had four days in which to chew the bitter end of reflection, and it is to be hoped that this earnest and hard-working player will, in future, let the umpires alone.

The Giants are back in New York today, after taking the entire series of five games from the locals. It is not too much to say that two of these games might have been won by the Boston team had Sweeney been in the lineup. He is the best second baseman, and one of the very best batters in the National League.

The "canning" of Sweeney undoubtedly had its effect on the entire Boston team, upsetting everybody at a time when they needed most to be steadied.

A FEW random notes of the last game of the Giants series:

Except for the first inning George Tyler pitched good enough ball to win nineteen games out of twenty. But he was off to a bad start. Bases on balls, with the infield running wild on the bases, combined with Fred Smith's bad error, put two runs over the pan, without the semblance of a safe hit. As a matter of fact, the Giants drove only seven balls out of the diamond in the nine innings. Four of these were safe hits and the others were easy flies.

IT is mighty easy for a team which has the speed of the Giants to score runs when any battery weakness develops in the enemy's ranks. Catcher Bill Rariden had decidedly an off day, allowing McGraw's men to pull single and double steals on him whenever they set out to do so.

TYLER has the most shiftless pose at the plate of any man in the big leagues. His manner is lackadaisical in the extreme. He swings his bat in one hand while the pitcher is winding up, and sometimes the ball is across the plate before George is ready to meet it. There is an old saying that you can't teach a man to bat. Few managers waste time trying to improve a pitcher's batting average, anyway.

IN spite of his loose methods at the plate, however, Tyler smacked out as pretty a two-base hit as one would wish to see. Connolly came along with another double to left centre, and Maranville put another two-bagger in the same spot. These swats yielded two runs.

TYLER got on the next time up by means of a pass. A questionable decision, when he was declared out on a fine slide into third base changed the complexion of things when the Pilgrims had a good chance to score.

RARIDEN'S double in the second inning was wasted on the desert air. It was a cold whack, and would have gone for an easy home run if the centre field poachers hadn't been in the way. As it was, the ball hit the boards with a loud report and bounded back so that Snodgrass was able to make still slide to make sure of reaching second base.

RUBE MARQUARD (with Mrs. Marquard viewing the conflict from the grandstand) pitched himself out of a couple of tight holes. But at that, the tall fellow didn't have near the "stuff" he displayed in the world's series against the Red Sox.

TAKING advantage of our privilege of the "second guess," we should say that "Hap" Myers had two good chances to let Maranville try a steal, but he started hitting at the ball right off the reel, and the little fellow had no opportunity to attempt a pilfer. We should say that these were two serious mistakes of the game, looking at it from the standpoint of the "second guess."

IN the first inning the Giants scored two runs without making a hit. In the last half of the same inning the Pilgrims scored one run on two hits.

WHOEVER gets out the score card might cross McKechnie off the lineup and also rearrange the list of "subs," eliminating the names of Metz and Schultz. Also change the spelling of Dixon to Dickson, and cut the "h" out of De Vogt. And spell Gonzales with an "s." Otherwise all is O. K.

SOMEWHAT warmer, but still too cold to bring out the "fans" in anything like droves, holidays excepted.

PRETTY good ball game, take it all through. Wouldn't mind seeing about forty more like it, provided the home team won its fair share.

ONE of the teams Stallings expects to beat out in the National League race shows at the old park this afternoon.

THERE is little ginger displayed by the Pilgrims in their actions in the field or at the bat. It would help some if all hands ran out to their positions and run in to the bench, instead of walking carefully to and fro. Every little helps. They shouldn't allow a little thing like the Giants nosing them out to worry them in the long run. Come along with some "pep," boys. And let's hear from the first base coacher now and then.

Zbyszko Ready for Big Mat Bout Against Le Marin

CHICAGO, April 22.—Jack Herman, manager of Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, said today that the Pole has trained harder for his bout with Le Marin at the Coliseum tomorrow than for any other match he has had in this country.

Henry Ordeman, Jess Westergaard, Joe Rogers and Otto Suter have been putting the big Pole through a series of training stunts, to which the public have been admitted, at Lewis' Gymnasium.

Manager Herman feels confident that Zbyszko will win the match and has made an offer to Frank Gotch for a match with Zbyszko, Gotch's purse to be $17,000, win, lose or draw.

Le Marin's friends have been keeping quiet and it is not generally known how he will show up when the two go to the mat tomorrow.

BOSTON COLLEGE IS WINNER OF GAME

Boston College defeated St. Michael's 3 to 1 yesterday at the Locust street grounds. Boston College scored in the first and sixth innings by being able to hit the ball when hits meant runs, while the Vermonters' only score came after Duchesnil doubled in the fifth, and came home on Donovan's single Harvard hopes to defeat Bowdoin at Soldiers' Field this afternoon by a fair margin. Not at all disheartened by the trouncing they received at West Point, the Crimson will put up a hard fight for the first home game of the season.

Last year the Harvard nine took the measure of Bowdoin by a score of 4 to 0, and, though it is not going to be quite so easy this year, Harvard men hope that a similar happy ending to the nine chapters will result.

The game will start at 4 o'clock. The last practice before a home season-opening was held yesterday to the delight of over 300 undergraduates who found time to travel across the Charles to see the college team work out.

The Bowdoin team will put up in Cambridge tonight and will probably leave for home tomorrow noon. If Bowdoin should win, a celebration will be held tonight and will be followed by a reunion of Bowdoin men, a large delegation of whom will attend today's clash.

Coach Sexton has two good pitchers to rely upon. Either Hardy or Felton will do the honors on the mound for the Crimson today. Felton has plenty of speed and a fine curve. Hardy is a veteran of one season.

HARVARD FIELD MEN IN PENN. TRACK GAMES

By J. O. JOHNSTONE.

(Champion High Jumper of the United States and Canada.)

Eight contestants, Manager Walter Tufts and Coach Pooch Donoran, will make up the Harvard track squad which will leave the Back Bay Station for its trip to the Pennsylvania relay games at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

The team will go directly to Philadelphia and on Saturday afternoon will compete against the leading colleges of the country in the field events.

Cable Certain to Win.

Of the individual athletes, Cable, in the hammer throwing event, seems to be the one man who is sure to return with premier honors. His fine showing in practice is little short of phenomenal, and his sure footing in the seven foot circle adds to his advantage in that event.

Captain Cummings, Jackson and T. O. Freeman will have as their opponents two of the finest hurdlers in the country.

They are Wendell of Western University, a member and winner of second place at the Olympic games last Summer, and Potter Yale's star hurdler.

Walter Camp, the only entry from Harvard in the pole vault, has two strong performers to deal with in his event. They are Marc Wright, the world's record holder, and Hesser, both place winners at the Olympics.

Stars in High Jump.

Allen is the entrant in the broad jump and he will be opposed by Roy Mercer of Penn and Gooch, the Virginian, who recently defeated Mercer.

In the high jump Moffat and the writer will have to vie against Richards of Brigham Young University, the winner of the Olympic high jump. Two other topnotchers who will compete are Burdick the ex-Pennsylvania champion and Illwright of Dartmouth, both members of the Olympic team.

Right Off the Bat

By RILEY.

BASEBALL'S best good luck is following the Red Sox around. They just four games by one run each. They lost their other two defeats by two runs each. By every form of evil baseball combination that could be gathered in the final innings, they lost two games that they seemed to have safely won.

And THEN Joe Wood, the only dependable pitcher in the string, was injured and is out of the game.

* * *

WOOD split his hand open sliding into third base at Philadelphia yesterday. He had to retire from the game. The accident, beyond any doubt whatever, cost us first consideration. It may also put Wood out of business for the Washington series.

* * *

WE needed that Athletic game badly enough. But, more than that, we needed Wood to win one of his week's four games with the Senators Western. That accident seems to put a gigantic, glittering, gilded finish on Strike April fortunes.

* * *

SPEAKING of stars who are not shining just now, did you notice that:

Detroit has won five games out of ten played? Considerably better than Detroit did in the first ten games last year. And Ty Cobb is still on the outside, looking in.

Pittsburgh has won six games and lost two? Very, very much better than Pittsburgh was doing about this time last year. And Honus Wagner hasn't yet found a baseball since the season opened.

* * *

BUT cheer up! All the stars are not behind the clouds. There's Walter Johnson, for instance, still waiting and scintillating. And we have to stack up against HIM today, tomorrow or the next day. Verily, the Fates have dropped out the Red Sox for their heartbreaks. Have they not? Yes, they have not.

* * *

IT Bill Sweeney had not eliminated himself from the Washington baseball game, it is quite likely his playmates would take him. Had he not been out of yesterday's game, it is almost sure they would have won. Sweeney's presence were great, and he had no reason to expect that Umpire Rigler had determined to start an early-season campaign against pinch-hitting ball players.

* * *

But the two games are gone—3 to 2 and 4 to 3—chiefly because there was no capable substitute for Bill Sweeney.

* * *

THERE'S a bit of comfort, though. Umpires Rigler and Byron are gone, too. While the umpires were living in the West more ball pitched. Yesterday President Tom Lynch, quietly but none the less wisely, removed Rigler and Byron from Brooklyn before the Giants-Phillies series here was ended, and substituted Kane and Orth, who had been working at Brooklyn.

* * *

WE object to "umpire baiting." We have no doubt of the sincerity of the gentlemen who are kicking the ind ctors in the big leagues. All the same, we and the other "boys" enjoy the ball games when certain of Mr. Lynch's arbitrators work elsewhere. Particularly when the infants are here.

* * *

IN the absence of the late departed, we didn't get any of the best of it at last, yesterday. We have complete confidence in Mr. Orth. But it looked very much like "Lefty" Tyler was safe at third base in the seventh, yesterday, if he WAS safe, he won't have scored a run which would have tied the game. Tyler started to limp with a base on balls. He took second on Gainer's error. He raced for third when Merkle was grounded to Fleischer. He still was out of Buck Herzog, at it. Buck only touched his fingers to the ball as Tyler wriggled into the sack and Herzog tumbled around to tag him.

* * *

TYLER sat down on the bag in disgust when Orth called him out. The observation near third base set up a roar of disapproval. But, remembering the fate of Bill Sweeney and Larry Doyle, Tyler and his fellow patriots kept forty months hermetically sealed, and the decision was unchallenged. Had Tyler been declared safe, he certainly would have scored on Meyers's fly to Burns in the box. Result—the game would have been tied.

* * *

THIS incident recalls to mind a certain weakness of the Pilgrims. With a man on second, they have too much tendency to hit to the left of the diamond. That tendency has cost them several chances to advance runners in the short time they season has been open. In fact, they have forced three men to run into outs at third. Another good pitching, if they can't hit on the ground safely or elect long and high, they ought at least to try to push their ground shots to the right of the diamond when none but a man is on first. That would help the base runner along towards the scoring station.

* * *

CY SEYMOUR "crossed" the Giants beautifully in the eighth yesterday, giving an example of skilful and thoughtful ball playing that would have tied or won the game if he had been properly followed up. Cy is notoriously slow. So, when he led off at third base, Manager Dreamed he would bunt. But Cy did. A beauty towards third base. He beat it out, too. Then Cy's run was unexpected. Kirke advanced like a base runner. Long hit, and Devlin pushed south to get Seymour. Devlin's sacrifice. With only one out, Kirke or Wen could have scored. But Arthur Rose who Stallings thinks will be a working third baseman some day, was sent up to pinch hit for Smith, who hadn't broken into the batting column. Rose hadn't faced curve ball pitching this season and struck out. So did Bill Barbeau. That settled the ball game.

* * *

COLLINS—the Vanderbilt University pitcher, who has been hailed as the wonder of the Southern colleges, has joined the Pilgrims' numerous Singles corps, making thirteen of them—count 'em. No danger of doodooing the squad. All the players were working up to capacity long before the thirteenth man got into the festivities.

HAUGHTON TO COACH HARVARD 3 YEARS MORE

Percy D. Haughton, who has coached the Harvard football teams for the last three years, has signed a new contract which will keep him at Harvard three years longer.

The announcement was made by William F. Garcelon, graduate manager of Harvard athletics. The salary paid Haughton was not made public, but it is known he has been receiving $5,000 a year since 1909. The terms of the new contract are said to be well in advance of this figure.

No Yale team has crossed Harvard's goal line for a touchdown since Haughton began coaching.

What Haughton gave his services free in 1908 the Crimson eleven beat Yale, 4 to 0 because of Kennard's goal from the field, and last year the Crimson beat Yale, 20 to 0, scoring two touchdowns and two field goals. These touchdowns were the first that Harvard had scored against Yale for eleven years.

In 1909 and 1911 the Harvard-Yale games resulted in 0 to 0 scores, while in 1910 Yale won from Harvard 8 to 0, making two field goals and forcing the Harvard men to make a safety.

Bill Dahlen's Brooklyn Dodgers are in Boston to-day in an attempt to make a few jumps far afield in the National League pennant race at the expense of the Pilgrims, against whom Sweeney will be back in the game, after a stiff rest that will try and help defeat the Brooklyns.

The Dodgers showed the giants as contenders in Saturday's [illegible] when they showed [illegible] yesterday. At any rate, a game with the Pilgrims should be a big help to the pitcher. The error only gave [illegible] two runs, so it's not as if [illegible] two runs on balls and one measly error scored two runs for the champions.

BUT [illegible]

They stole five bases in that inning. One [illegible] a part of a double [illegible] was picked off third [illegible] by the catcher's throw [illegible] in [illegible] started [illegible] with a hit [illegible] second on Wilson's error, to third on a [illegible] and scored on a passed [illegible] in [illegible] inning. Gentlemen: In December 15th, March, 1900 and September, 1900 I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs which confined me several weeks, each time to my bed. My doctor said I could not live till Spring.

In November I started for Denver, Colorado as well as I could and I am happy to say my hemorrhages have seldom since returned to me. I have gained in weight 30 pounds. In two months I began to feel better. I kept on taking the medicine and in December 15th, 1900 I left and took home. I think I am as well as ever and have a good appetite and sleep well. When I left Denver my weight was 160 pounds. I now weigh 190 pounds. I would be glad to hear from you. Yours truly,

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HE WILL NOT IMPROVE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Among my numerous male acquaintances, I have one whom I think I could learn to love, and who I know loves me. He has often spoken of marriage to me, but I hesitate on account of his peculiar actions. He very often says and does things which hurt my feelings, after which he immediately turns around and apologizes, and claims he does so because I do not show that I love him. Can a fault of this nature be remedied after marriage.

DOUBTFUL.

THE reforms that women have accomplished after marriage are so rare that it is past belief that any girl has faith in her ability to reform any man. If this man has no regard for your feelings now, he will have less after marriage. You are seeing the best in him now.

NO TO BOTH

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Is it proper for a girl to speak to a man she met at a dance and was not introduced to? When you dance with a man and then happen to meet him, and he speaks, would it be proper to answer? B. W.

A girl should not speak to a man to whom she has not been introduced. In the second instance the girl did wrong to dance with a man she did not know. Such freedom gives him the privilege of greeting her under other circumstances and leaves her without the power to rebuke him.

DRAKE'S

"THAT CITY FELLER'S COMIN' TONIGHT" — By Michelson

By FRANCIS L. GARSIDE

ONLY those who have had the broadening experience of having an older sister in the family can fully appreciate this picture.

To them it means something more than an artistic and rather amusing scene. It is a chapter from life.

The oldest girl in the family is its Princess, and she rules with a heavy hand. Conditions that have suited her father, contented her mother, and been beyond criticism from the younger members, are thoroughly revolutionized when daughter ascends the throne.

This Princess is expecting a visit from a man from the city. If he were from the city or country, really makes little difference, for it is the opinion of every Princess that her lover is much superior to her family, and that she must make them over to match his greatness.

Father is going through the ordeast of getting ready for his Sunday clothes. Mother's cooking, always a matter of criticism from the Princess, will be subjected to greater criticism than ever. The only one who is enjoying the excitement is the second daughter, who is anticipating the day when she will have a lover who will come "riding on his steed of steeds."

There is always one subject in the domain of every Princess who rebels, and that is her youngest brother. He has to be forcibly held, and if it were not for the restraint of his parents he would carry his rebellion to the extremity of active warfare.

The picture also suggests the greatest need of the world today from a boy's point of view: An amendation of the "dry cleaning" process women talk so much about, and which is said to be harmless.

Married Life the Third Year

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

A Letter from Warren's Aunt Stirs Helen.

IT was not fair! Aunt Emma had no right to ask it! It was too much to expect! Rebelliously Helen threw down this last letter from Warren's aunt.

They had done their share! They had sent that box of clothing—and a check. Until now Helen had not known that Warren had sent the check. She wondered how much it was. Again she took up Aunt Emma's letter and for the third time read it through.

Dayton, Ohio, April 9, 1913.

Dear Helen—I can't tell you how thankful we were to get the box. If you only knew how much we needed everything you sent. George was especially grateful for that overcoat of Warren's and your brown suit just fit me. I only had to let out the skirt band.

Tell Warren his Uncle George is going to write him and thank him for the check. We hadn't expected that, but it has helped so much. Everything is still in a dreadful condition. The whole house will have to be cleaned and disinfected before anything can be used. The filthy deposit the flood left over everything is horrible. And we find that much of the foundation of the house has been washed away. The walls are all cracked and most of the plaster is off.

We have tried to clean out the kitchen and dining room; have tacked sheets over the walls. It will be weeks before we can get the rest of th house fit to use.

Now, Helen, I'm going to ask something of you and Warren, which I want you to feel free to answer frankly. You remember you once invited Alice to make you a visit. Do you think you could let her come now? If I could only get her away from here for a few weeks it would mean so much to us all. She has not been well all Winter, and the horror of this has told on her fearfully. But if you feel that it would not be convenient, and that I am asking too much, please do not hesitate to say so.

Lovingly,
AUNT EMMA.

Helen Is Rebellious

No, it was NOT fair! The more Helen read the letter the more rebellious she felt. If Alice must get away, why could she not visit Carrie or some of the other relatives? They were all better able to have her.

It was all very well for Aunt Emma to write that they must not hesitate to say so if it were not convenient, but she knew they would not say that.

Besides the box, Warren had sent a check—that thought kept rankling. Why had he not told her? How much had he sent? And still his Aunt Emma expected them to do more!

Then Helen felt suddenly ashamed of her attitude. Was she getting hard and unsympathetic and selfish? Should she not be glad to help these relatives of Warren's who had been through such a terrible tragedy and had lost practically everything?

For the rest of the day Helen's thoughts and feelings were most complex. Her real desire to be generous and helpful was mingled with the rankling rebellion about it all. She had met Alice only once, about two years before, and then she had been a very pretty but rather vain and frivolous girl of about eighteen. Helen knew that as the only child, both Aunt Emma and Uncle George had petted and pampered her beyond words. And to have this spoiled young woman on one's hands for an indefinite visit was not a cheerful prospect.

Helen restrained her impulse to tell Warren about it as soon as he came home, for she wanted him to have his dinner unworried. But afterward when he was settled in the library, she handed him the letter with a quiet,

"Here's a letter I got from your Aunt Emma today."

He read it without comment, put it down on the table and then gazed frowningly out of the window. Several minutes passed and still he did not speak.

Must Send a Check

"What do you think we ought to do, dear?" ventured Helen finally.

Without answering Warren rose and strode up and down the room, his hands in his pockets, frowning down on the floor. He was plainly much upset.

"Suppose we'll have to let her come. Don't see how we can refuse, do you?"

"No, I suppose we can't," weakly.

"And I'll have to send a check for her fare, too."

"Oh, will we have to do that? Why surely, Warren, they won't expect that!"

"Well, they've lost everything haven't they? Uncle George wrote me that all the stock in the store was ruined, and he had only fire insurance—nothing to cover ills."

"But you just sent them a check, didn't you?" longing to ask how much it had been.

"Oh, they'll have used that. Well, we're in for it, I guess. You'll have to write her to come on. Say I'll send a check for her ticket. But by George, I've had a bad month, and I can tell you this doesn't come easy."

"Oh, dear, I'm so sorry." Helen stroked his arm in tender sympathy, "but think how much better off we are than so many—those poor people out there who've lost everything—whose home and families have been swept away. At least we have our home and each other."

"Huh, well I don't think that's so blamed much. And now we've got her coming on here. If any one thinks I've got a cinch—well, they're welcome to my job. I'm not any too keen on it, I can tell you that. Now if you're going to write that letter, you'd better get at it."

Helen Writes the Letter

"Oh, Warren, do I have to write it? Hadn't you better?"

"She wrote you, didn't she? You're the one has to answer."

"What shall I say?" going reluctantly over to the desk. "I can't truthfully write we'll be glad to have her come."

"Well, you're pretty good at lying—say it on thick. If we're going to do the thing at all, we might as well do it up right."

"When shall I say for her to come?" helplessly.

"As soon as she wants to. No use putting it off."

Helen wrote steadily for several moments.

"Will this do?" reading aloud.

"Boston, April 11.

"Dear Aunt Emma—We'll be very glad to have Alice visit us. We know how difficult things must be for you and are glad of this opportunity to help. I have just talked it over with Warren, and he agrees with me that it will be the best thing for Alice. We will do everything possible to make her visit a pleasant one and help her to forget the fearful ordeal she has been through.

"Warren says tell you he will send a check for her fare in a few days. Let us know when to expect her. Affectionately, your niece,

"HELEN."

"Um—m, that'll do, I suppose."

Helen folded the letter and put it into the envelope thoughtfully.

"Dear, we're not doing it very cheerfully, are we? I suppose we oughtn't to feel so mean about it."

"Huh, we deserve a lot of credit for doing it at all. You think people do such things cheerfully? Take it from me that nine-tenths of the so-called 'unselfish, generous, charitable' deeds are done a darn site more begrudgingly than we're doing this. Here, give me that letter—I'll mail it now."

WINS STEEL TRUST FIGHT FOR WORKMEN

Charles M. Cabot of Boston has won his fight to have published by the United States Steel Corporation regular pamphlet reports showing what is being done to improve the working conditions of the employes.

Under the plan formulated by Mr. Cabot, as adopted at the annual meeting of the corporation in Hoboken, N. J., the directors today are compelled to make a public record of their treatment of the employes.

The owner of thirty shares of preferred stock in the corporation, and holding proxies for 1,000 additional shares, he secured this concession at the Hoboken meeting only after a determined effort and the matter today is in the hands of a special committee.

After the meeting, he further said that he would start a campaign of publicity regarding the Steel Corporation's treatment of its men. He had done all he could within the organization to improve conditions for the employes. He credited himself with securing the six-day week and told of his efforts to have an eight-hour day put in force with three shifts of workers instead of two.

TODAYS STOCK MARKET

The improvement in stock market sentiment which began with yesterday's legal and other developments, held over when trading began this morning. Local copper shares were helped by the steadiness of the leaders of their class in New York and by higher quotations in the London warrants market.

The feature in Boston was weakness of Mellen issues. When New Haven had sagged below 113 it had touched a new low. Within a few minutes after the opening Boston & Maine declined more than a point.

Boston Elevated was among the dullest of stocks. It eased off a quarter of a point in the first hour.

The local market was very quiet as well as steady.

Early strength of the New York market was well maintained later in the forenoon, when Reading, Union Pacific, American Can, Southern Pacific, Steel, Amalgamated and a number of other prominent issues held small gains.

How New York Market Began.

Sentiment was better when the New York market began and in early trading there were gains of from a quarter to three-quarters of a point throughout the list. Government intervention in the Minnesota rate case was an uplifting influence. Court events at St. Paul in regard to dissolution of the Harriman lines were also salutary. Some large operators showed a disposition to accumulate stocks and there were orders from such quarters.

Room traders, however, remained bearish. After the buying orders had been filled at the opening the speculative element offered leading stocks at concessions.

Among the earliest gains were: Amalgamated ¼, American Can ⅝, Anaconda ⅜, Canadian Pacific ⅝, Chesapeake & Ohio ½, Steel common ¼, U. S. Rubber common ¼, Union Pacific ⅝, Reading ⅝, Pennsylvania ¼, Northern Pacific ⅛, Missouri Pacific ⅜, Great Northern preferred ⅝.

Atchison shaded and Union Pacific lost part of its advance after half an hour.

The curb was weaker.

Americans in London were strong, especially the Harriman group. Canadian Pacific in London moved up sharply.

London Copper Quotations.

The London copper warrants market opened firm and with spot up 6s 3d and futures 5s 3d higher.

The metal market is firm at 15¾ cents a pound for electrolytic, and in regard to the report there have been sales at 15⅝, large consumers say they have been unable to get any at the latter figure. In fact, there is said to be a scarcity at the former price.

It is reported that Davis-Daly ore shipments from the Colorado mine have increased from fifty to one hundred tons a day.

Copper exports thus far this month total 21,435 pounds.

Directors of the Algomah Copper Company have levied an assessment, payable June 16 by stock of record June 14.

Labor and Elevated Dividends.

Labor leaders claim the decline in the price of Boston Elevated shares is not due to any danger of a strike because employes have asked through their union for new wage and working schedule. One man who is prominent in labor circles made this statement to the Boston AMERICAN:

"Under the agreement reached, when the street carmen's strike was settled last year three schedules were automatically referred to arbitration. If a satisfactory agreement cannot be reached by the Elevated and the union. This is taken to mean that a strike is impossible, so long as both parties live up to the agreement. Also, that an impartial board or arbitration could be induced to grant wage increases which would impair the service, or make impossible the payment of a rational rate of interest on the money invested in the system."

Financial News in Brief.

For the first quarter of the year net earnings of the Mexican Petroleum Company were $1,265,830, equal to 8 per cent. on the preferred and over 11 per cent. on the common stock.

When Lackawanna Steel Company directors meet on Thursday next it is expected they will put the common stock on a 4 per cent. dividend basis. The usual 1¾ per cent. dividend on the preferred stock will also be declared.

It is estimated that earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the first quarter of 1912 will be between $37,000,000 and $38,000,000, or over $2,000,000 more than for the last quarter of 1912.

A Baltimore & Ohio director states that the flood damage sustained by the road approximates between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000.

New York City bonds continued to eag to new low levels. Three issues made new records yesterday. Mahon & Co. sold $154,000 New York City Corporate 4 per cent. stock of 1963 at the new minimum of 92¼.

Electrification of sall transcontinental lines over territory where electric current is available from water power will be accomplished within a very few years, according to John D. Ryan, President of the Amalgamated Copper Company. He added: "The copper metal market is much improved, and a large business has been done in the last month."

J. P. Morgan & Co. announce that the $10,000,000 one-year 5 per cent. notes of the New York Central offered yesterday have been sold. The road, it is understood, had to pay a stiff price for its money.

During March the net operating revenue of the Baltimore & Ohio declined $1,009,453, but for nine months there was an increase of $981,879. It is estimated that sunday operations will show a March deficit in net of $60,000, compared with one of $55,642 for the same month of 1912.

The J. G. Brill Company has declared a semi-quarterly dividend of 3½ per cent. on preferred stock.

It is estimated that the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company's 1913 gross will be $14,000,000 or more, compared with $13,-000,000 in 1912.

The New York sub-treasury gained $1,664,000 from the banks yesterday and has gained $2,000,000 since Friday.

FORBES SEES BOON IN AID TO RAILROADS

By B. C. FORBES.

Business Editor of the American.

Is the Federal government at last to rescue the railroads from embarrassment by individual States? "Yes," is the answer suggested by the unexpected action taken yesterday by Attorney-General McReynolds in asking permission to file a brief in the State rate cases now before the Supreme Court.

In simple language, the position is this: Certain States, including Minnesota, have sought to compel the railroads to lower rates. The railroads contend that this constitutes unwarranted interference with the interstate commerce and that the Federal authorities, not the States, have jurisdiction over such traffic.

The lower courts have upheld this view but appeal has been taken by State authorities to the Supreme Court and a final decision has been anxiously awaited each Monday the justices have ascended the bench.

Mr. McReynolds now seeks to acquaint the Supreme Court with the Federal government's attitude.

Union to Aid Roads.

This can mean only one thing, namely, that the administration is to champion the cause of the railroads in their annoying and expensive fight with various State authorities.

This is big news. It is, too, from the financial point of view, welcome news. No unbiased student can doubt that were each State to be allowed to play fast and loose with every ton of freight entering its borders, the country's transportation machinery would be thrown completely out of gear. Chaos could and probably would ensue. Certain States have manifested senseless antagonism to the railroads. They have regarded the roads as enemies, instead as agents for the development of their resources. They have discouraged railroad building. They have stultified industrial expansion. They have arrested progress.

The railroads have been passing through a period of oppression. Are they nearing effective and nation-wide relief? The Attorney-General's intervention indicates that they are.

The public used to feel hostile to many railroads and not without reason in many instances. There was overmuch dabbling by railroads in politics. Rebating was rampant. In the days of the small man and the benefit of the more powerful corporations. The free pass evils had gone to extreme length. Instead of striving to co-operate with the people, the railroads too often sought to ride over their wishes roughshod. By these and other misdeeds the railroads laid up for themselves a peck—a bushel—of trouble.

But have not the abuses been abolished? Are not the railroads now under genuine control by the Interstate Commerce Commission? Is not regulation very real, very effective and very rigid? Is the public not being ably protected?

State Fights Are Bad.

If no man can serve two masters, how can the railroads be expected to serve forty-nine masters? If one State can arbitrarily order a rate lowered, should not every other State in the Union do the same? Should each State strive to "go one better" in "swatting the railroads?" What would the upshot be? Where would the railroads be? Bankruptcy would be inevitable. And that would not be the end of the trouble for every laborer, every farmer, every banker, every railroad man, every clerk would suffer.

There are glimmers of returning sanity in some States. The new Hampshire Legislature, for example, has instructed a committee to bring forward a bill authorizing an advance in rates there. Public bodies in other States have voiced resentment against continued attacks upon our arteries of commerce. General sentiment, indeed, appears to have undergone modification now that the Interstate Commerce Commission has the railroads so thoroughly in hand.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

Senate bill 484, which has the licensing of motor trucks in hand, has been referred back to the Committee on Roads and Bridges, with the request that hearings on the same be reopened.

This is considered as a decided victory for the truck men, and special pains will be taken to see that at these new hearings, the first of which will be held the week after next, the truck men do not rely upon any alleged agreements with the Massachusetts Highway Commission or any other body.

A meeting of the truck dealers and owners will be held at the Boston City Club on Thursday afternoon at 4 p. m., when arrangements will be made for presenting their case to the Committee on Roads and Bridges. It is planned to prepare data for presentation before the committee, showing that, in addition to the unjustness of the measure, it will affect practically every manufacturing industry in the State.

This year's Spring outing of the Bay State Automobile Association will, under the present plans, be the most extended one in the history of the organization. The committee in charge has in hand the arranging of affairs so that Sunday, Monday, August 3, Tuesday, June 15, 16 and 17, and, if need be, the afternoon of June 14, can be spent in the vicinity of Lake Spofford.

* * *

The annual club run of the New Brunswick Automobile Association will be run this year from St. John to Boston. The motorists will leave St. John on Saturday, August 2, and make the round trip in a week.

"It is surprising to think of what a large amount of business we have done since it generally became known that we had some rebuilt cars to dispose of at attractive prices," says Local Manager H. A. Hinsdale of the Winton Company.

"During the past week or so we have been working night and day, the result being that we have very few of these rebuilt cars now on hand. Within a few days we shall have cleaned up about everything in stock. The public realizes that a rebuilt car, carrying with it the Winton guarantee of service and reliability, is a pretty valuable acquisition."

The first trip made over the road between Boston and Portland, Me., this season by motorcycle was made by H. S. Tobey, with G. V. Ricker as tandem passenger, on an Indian motorcycle, on April 19. They report the roads beyond Portsmouth in poor condition, and in several places practically impassable.

Divorced Wife Aids Peck, Who May Lose Mind

ITHACA, N. Y., April 22.—With his former wife, Cornelia D. Peck, who obtained a divorce from him, as nurse, Harry D. Peck, once a Columbia professor, who is critically ill here, is receiving her constant attention. The former Mrs. Peck is a Christian Scientist and she is trying to nurse her patient back to health through her faith. Peck's present wife, who is in New York, wrote she was too poor to come to Ithaca.

It is feared that Peck, through his worries and troubles of the past year, may lose his reason.

BLACK FOXES

United States Consul Wesley Frost, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, reports as follows:

"A phenomenal expansion is taking place in the Black Fox industry on Prince Edward Island. Although a report upon this subject was published in the United States Consular and Trade Reports for March, the development since that time has been so rapid and so important that an entirely fresh treatment is called for.

The property of the Massachusetts Silver Black Fox Company will be situated near Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, and will consist of seventy pairs of best bred Silver Black Foxes, for which we have signed agreements.

Experience on the Island having young foxes for sell will pay from 500% to 1000% this year, and stockholders refuse to part with their holdings at double the original cost.

Prices on Black Foxes are steadily increasing. The business is secure, as the breeders will be unable to supply the demand for years to come.

The Massachusetts Silver Black Fox Company are offering a limited amount of their stock at par, $100.00 a share. As most of the stock therefore formed have been oversubscribed, those desiring to become interested in our company should subscribe at once. Taking into consideration the success of others engaged in the business, the stock in the Massachusetts Silver Black Fox Company should be worth double its par value in one year. 25% of amount subscribed for must accompany the application, and the balance on or before August 1, 1913. Write, telephone or call at our office for prospectus, which contains information from reliable sources.

California's Fight Is the Entire Nation's

There is a certain class of people in this country of ours who are aliens at heart, always have been aliens and always will be.

They have never become Americans in spirit. They have never been able to assimilate the American system, to appreciate the American point of view. They may have been American citizens for years, their fathers and grandfathers may have been American citizens, they may have descended from our first and oldest families, but they are inherently incapable of being Americans or understanding Americans.

In most cases the immigrant who has just landed has a better understanding of American principles and policy and a greater loyalty to American ideals than these congenital aliens whose thoughts are foreign to our American spirit and sentiment.

The hotbed of this kind of un-American toryism is, and always has been, New York. In the days of the Revolution these Tories supported the cause of the Crown, and never since that time has there been a dispute between the United States and any foreign nation that these aliens in character and constitution have not taken the side of the foreign nation, without regard to the justice of the American position and generally without any knowledge of the subject under discussion.

The present instance is the case of California. The congenital aliens immediately assume that California is wrong in her decision to exclude unnaturalized citizens from the right to possess lands in California and that Japan is right.

They know nothing of the subject, as their utterances clearly indicate. But they are convinced that California must be wrong, apparently because it is a part of the United States, and the fundamental principle of their position is that the United States is always wrong, and what is characteristic of the whole must be characteristic of any particular part.

As a matter of fact, California is right, legally right, constitutionally right, morally right, ethnologically right, right for her own best interests, right for the best interests of the whole country, including New York, and right for the best interests of all the citizens of this country, including the citizens of New York—even the class of congenital toadies and tories.

California is within her State's rights, guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, when she decides that individuals who have not been naturalized may not hold land within her confines.

Any State in the Union might make such a law, and it would not be within the power or privilege of the United States to prevent it.

California is acting to her own best advantage in making such a law, because the Japanese would not make good citizens and do not make good residents.

They are a race which this nation cannot and should not assimilate. They would inflict upon us another and greater race problem than we have yet dealt with, and we already have race problems which are difficult enough to solve.

The Japanese in the numbers in which they are invading California, are not only objectionable, they are dangerous. They begin by occupying a small portion of a district and making themselves there so obnoxious by their personal attitude and Oriental peculiarities that the Caucasian residents of that district soon become willing to sell their properties and leave the section.

The Japanese then buy up these depreciated properties at bargain prices and bring in more Japanese to extend the ill effects of their colonization.

The Japanese are never on good terms with these Caucasian neighbors. They never employ a Caucasian when they can employ a Japanese. They live encysted in their orientalism, as a foreign growth within the American body politic, an ever increasing danger to the well-being of our social and political system.

These Japanese are not, and never will be, and never want to be, Americans. Worse than that, they are actively and essentially antagonistic to American ideas and to the welfare of the American nation.

They are Japanese citizens. More than that, they are Japanese soldiers, and when their numbers become sufficient they may at any time become a Japanese army directed definitely, positively and powerfully against the government and the people of this country.

In acting in her own interest, therefore, to limit this Japanese invasion and prevent the widespread possession of American territory by the Japanese, California is wisely and patriotically providing for the protection of the whole country.

She should be commended by the other States of the Union and sustained in her action by the other States in the Union and by the people of every State in the Union.

There is no objecion raised on the part of the United States to the exclusion of our citizens from the privilege of holding lands in Japan, and there would be no objection on the part of Japan to the exclusion of her unnaturalized and unnaturalizable citizens from holding lands in our country if it were not that the same congenital aliens, the same treasonable Tories, the same pitifully small Americans who are opposing the best interests of the nation in this instance of California, have always opposed the best interests of the nation in the matter of a greater navy, and have traitorously caused the Pacific coast of our great country to be left almost defenceless against an Asiatic enemy.

Our semi-weekly Secretary of the Navy who has discovered that a ship has an off and a nigh side and can best be controlled in its course by the orders "Gee" and "Haw," is about to send our battleships on a junket abroad. He would do better to keep them at home and locate them in the waters of the Pacific where they may be needed to maintain the rights of our citizens and to protect the territory of our nation.

How Women Regard Each Other

By DOROTHY DIX

ONE of the most interesting and significant features of the whole feminist movement is the altered point of view with which women regard each other. It has not only brought the women of every rank and station together, but it has taught them to stand together.

It has made Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's Lady realize that they are sisters under the skin, and it has made Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's Lady feel responsible for each other and anxious to help each other.

You see this exemplified in the way in which rich and fashionable women, and women college professors, and college graduates have rallied to the assistance of striking garment workers in their fight for a living wage and decent working conditions.

You see it in the fact that every movement that has for its aim the safeguarding of girls, the shortening of working hours for women, or for the welfare of women in any way invariably has a solid backing of the best women in every community.

You see it in the way in which every woman who has succeeded in any business or profession tries to help every other woman who is starting forth to begin her own battle with the world.

Only a few days ago the papers published the story of a wealthy woman who had commissioned a famous singing teacher to pick out two poor girls with fine voices whose expenses she would pay while they went abroad and fitted themselves to become opera singers.

In these days you never hear a woman say that a woman's best friend is a man, and that when she wants a favor she always goes to the opposite sex.

Women know now that a woman's best friend is a woman, and that she's the only one who never expects to be paid back for her kindness. The old days when every woman was suspicious of every other woman, and they were at each other's throats like tigresses have gone, merged in the dawn of a better era that is sweet with the sisterhood of woman.

Of course, being human, there is bound to be a certain amount of selfishness, and rivalry and jealousy. The star actress has not reached the millennium in which she steps aside and gives the spotlight to the debutante; the woman who is at the head of a department does not yield her position and fat salary to a newcomer without a struggle, nor does the wife resign her husband to an affinity without a protest, any more than men do any of these things, but there is a more fair and honest rivalry between women than there used to be, and a keener realization of other women's rights.

A most interesting illustration of this changed point of view of women, and of their new realization of their sisterhood has just come to me in a letter from a young girl of nineteen. She writes that she is deeply in love with a man, to whom she is engaged to be married. She has recently found out, however, that this man has wronged a young girl, and putting aside her own feelings, she has been urging him to make what amends he can by marrying the other woman.

"I feel that this other girl has a far stronger claim upon him than I have," she writes, "and that if he were any sort of a man, and had any particle of honor or chivalry in his nature, he would marry this poor, unfortunate girl who was a good girl, as he admits, until he met her. Anyway, I feel that I could never be happy with him, because I could never forget or forgive his treachery to that trusting girl. Yet I love him dearly, and it breaks my heart to even think of sending him from me."

Is not this letter—and I assure you I have quoted it literally—an illustration of the new nobility of womanhood?

Yet the writer has no notion that she is an idealist or an altruist. She is just a plain working girl, without much education, who sees clearly her duty to her sister woman, and unconsciously realizes that women must fight each other's battles, shoulder to shoulder, when they face a common enemy.

Ten years ago no woman would have written such a letter, no girl would have taken such a position. For ages it has been the custom to make the woman bear all the burden of the wrong doing in such affairs, and to send the female sinner to Coventry while you asked the male sinner to dinner.

And the chief stoners of the Magdalenes were women.

I think that the act of this little working girl who tells the man she loves to go and marry another woman because the other woman's claim upon him is greater than hers, is worthy of a place beside that immortal legend.

It is a beautiful example of the chivalry of woman to woman, and that is something that is new in the history of the world.

The Reveille

By MINNA IRVING

WHEN all the bees are sleeping yet,
And winds are damp and cold,
And still the crocus in the bulb
Is hoarding up its gold,
And not a budlet ventures out
Upon the lilac tree,
A dashing soldier-bird appears
And sounds the reveille.

The violets in their purple caps
Get ready to parade,
And every tiny root of grass
Unsheathes a slender blade,
When with the azure of the sky
Upon his painted wing,
The bluebird from the orchard sounds
The reveille of Spring.

Governor Foss Made a Grave Mistake in Vetoing the Honest Butter Bill—He Encourages Dealers to Sell Water for the Price of Butter

It is difficult to read the Governor's veto message on the HONEST BUTTER BILL without feeling sorry for the Governor. Nearly every sentence of this message makes it clear that Governor Foss appreciated how difficult it is to assign valid reasons for OPPOSING a sound proposition.

The HONEST BUTTER BILL which the Governor has vetoed was introduced on the petition of Mayor Fitzgerald at the suggestion of the inspector of the city Board of Health. It simply provides that butter sold in this Commonwealth shall contain not more than 16 per cent. of water. The national government had made an EXACTLY SIMILAR PROVISION.

Inspector Jordan of the Boston Board of Health says that in the course of his inspections he found butter which contained MORE THAN ONE-THIRD WATER. It is against such cheating as this that the bill which the Governor has unwisely vetoed was directed.

Under the national Constitution the Congress of the United States has control over interstate commerce. Exercising this power over interstate commerce, Congress has passed a pure food bill which affects food products which pass from one State to another. UNDER THE NATIONAL PURE FOOD LAW THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT REQUIRES THAT BUTTER SHALL NOT CONTAIN MORE THAN 16 PER CENT. OF WATER. But this only affects butter as it passes from one State to another.

After it has arrived in Massachusetts from out of the State, the purchaser may "DOCTOR" the butter with as much water as he pleases and yet not come within the pains and penalties of the national law.

Moreover, the maker of butter in this Commonwealth can put as much water in his butter as he pleases so long as it is not sent across the State borders, BUT IS SOLD TO OUR CITIZENS. In other words, the people of other States are protected by the national law against cheating by the makers of our butter, but our people are left unprotected. It was to correct this condition of things that the bill requiring all butter sold in this Commonwealth to contain not more than 16 per cent. of water was passed.

What REASONS does the Governor give for this extraordinary veto?

He says that the presence of water in butter does not make the butter injurious to health. Nobody contends that it does. This bill does not attempt to prevent the making of unwholesome butter.

But it WAS intended to require the making of HONEST butter.

When an unnecessary amount of water is put into butter, the man who buys that butter is cheated, for he is not receiving a pound of butter; he is receiving so much butter and so much WATER, and without his knowledge he is being required to pay for water at butter prices, which is rather high for water.

The Governor says that there is no economical test which can ascertain the amount of water in butter. This is not true, and no difficulty is found in the enforcement of the national law limiting the water which butter shall contain.

The Governor says that an expensive test must be made of each tub of butter, which would add materially to the cost of butter to the public.

THIS IS ALSO NOT TRUE.

One test of each day's churning by a dairy would be sufficient to ascertain the water in the day's product of butter and the expense would be NOMINAL.

The Governor says that the bill would be a hardship on the retailer, because he might, without knowing it, be fined for butter which did not meet the test and that he would have no redress.

THIS ALSO IS NOT TRUE, for he could readily require a guarantee from the party who sold the butter to him that the butter meets the requirements of law. Such a guarantee is exacted every day in the business world, that goods bought shall meet a certain standard.

The Governor says that the cost of making such a test of this butter would advance the price of butter several cents a pound.

THIS IS SHEER NONSENSE. ON THE CONTRARY, IT WILL REDUCE THE PRICE OF BUTTER. Under this law we would receive BUTTER, not WATER, when we pay for butter.

The bill which the Governor has unfortunately vetoed PASSED BOTH HOUSES of the Legislature on its MERITS. A disgraceful attempt was made to stab it in the back last week in the Senate when a number of its friends were absent. The trick was exposed on the next legislative day, when the opponents of the bill, HAVING NO MERITORIOUS ARGUMENTS TO MAKE AGAINST IT, were helpless.

It is sad that the Governor has seen fit to join with the opponents of this excellent bill, which was only intended to punish DOWNRIGHT CHEATING in the manufacture and sale of an important food article. Its merits were so great that it could not be openly opposed with success in the Legislature, nor vetoed by the Governor upon any ground which will bear the slightest investigation.

By this veto and by the language which accompanies the message, the Governor puts himself squarely athwart the line of progress. The national government and all the States are gradually driving ALL THE CHEATS AND ADULTERATORS of food out of business.

Shall Massachusetts lag behind, permitting her citizens to be cheated, when the national governemnt is trying to protect them?

Who profits by this CHEATING and ADULTERATING of food? Certainly not the HONEST men who manufacture food products. They lose as well as the public. Take the watering of butter as an example. What is the primary object of this DISHONESTY? Obviously to undersell the HONEST dealer who is selling REAL butter.

When we buy a pound of butter, we cannot tell how much water there is in it. We pay the same price for it, whether it is all butter or only half butter. So the CROOK in the BUSINESS puts water into his butter and UNDERSELLS the HONEST DEALER.

The public which buys and the dealer who sells honest food products need protection, and the AMERICAN will NOT CEASE TO FIGHT to bring the Massachusetts standards of pure food regulation up to the standards established by the national government, the GOVERNOR TO THE CONTRARY NOTWITHSTANDING.

Nor do we despair of making Governor Foss himself see his own error. We believe that his act was hasty and ill considered. He is not usually so far out of the line of progress.
